TRAINING FILMS

Catalogue Number	Title	No of copies 35 mm	16 mm	Running Time
B 913	A DAY IN THE LINE	2	-	34 mins

This film is intended to give the private soldier who has not been in action some idea of life in the line. It concentrates on the men of one Infantry section for 24 hours from the time they take over their positions in the front line, showing the various duties carried out, and the reactions of the men to front line conditions.

B 914	COUNTERING A MORTAR	1	-	32 mins

This film describes the various methods of locating enemy mortars, and shows the working of a counter mortar organisation in battle.

B 929	TACKLING A PROBLEM	1	-	31 mins

This film is designed to instruct Staff officers in a logical approach to military problems.

N.B. For showing to officers only.

B 930	WORK HARD PLAY HARD	2	-	17 mins

Once a year the Army Cadet Force go to camp, which is the culmination of a year's training. This film shows how the Army Cadet Force aims at helping a boy to learn self-discipline and to take a pride in himself and his work.

PART III—FILM STRIPS

PREFACE

1. What is a Film Strip?

A film strip is a form of visual aid for instructors. In form it is roughly equivalent to a series of lantern slides, with captions, made as a series of separate pictures on a strip of 33-mm. non-inflammable cine film which can be projected one at a time on to a wall or screen while the instructor proceeds with his lecture, using the projected pictures as a sort of elaborate blackboard or wall chart.

The strip is designed for projection in a semi-lighted room so that students have enough light to make notes, consult textbooks and see their instructor (thus maintaining the psychological contact between instructor and student which is so important and which tends to be lost in a completely darkened room).

If desired, the strip may be shown in the dark while the instructor sketches the scope of the lesson, but it must be projected again in the semi-lighted room for detailed study.

Strip pictures may be in the form of drawings, cutaway views of equipment, sectional drawings, diagrams or photographs, put together in a logical sequence to suit the development of the lecture. Lecture notes are in some cases provided as a guide to instructors where the lesson of the strip is not sufficiently self-evident.

2. How is a Film Strip Used?

Normally, each film strip is designed to occupy the ordinary period of one lecture, i.e., about 40 minutes. The strip will not instruct by itself and is not designed to do so; it is a visual aid to the instructor in putting over his lesson.

The room should be darkened sufficiently to allow the projection of a sharp, clear image, and at the same time permit the taking of notes. The degree of darkness for any classroom must be discovered by trial.

The instructor should know the contents of the strip before the lesson begins and should make his own notes and work out his own exposition. The strip can be flexible in use. The instructor can omit certain "frames" (i.e., pictures) if he wishes and he can wind the strip forwards or backwards at will. He should not feel himself tied to the strip, which is produced as an aid, not a master.

Strips are used in the ordinary classroom during the ordinary lectures and are not to be looked upon as a special event, but as a familiar item of classroom equipment.

It should be noted that text on the strip is always kept to a minimum to act as notebook headings for the students and as a lead to the instructor. No attempt is made to put the text of the instruction on the strip.

The best results will usually be found if the instructor remains near the screen as if by a blackboard, while one of the class operates the projector to the instructor's requirements.

3. How to get copies of Film Strips.

Film strips are made by the Directorate of Army Kinematography on behalf of various War Office Directorates such as D.M.T., D.G.A.M.S., D.A.B.C.A., etc. Distribution is made to the requirements of the Sponsoring Directorate. Army Education Film Strips will be distributed by Command Education Officers.

4. How to get a Film Strip Projector.

Projectors for use with Military Training film strips are issued by O.S.8 on allocation by D.M.T. (M.T. 16) through normal Ordnance channels. Requests for film strip projectors for use with Army Educational film strips produced for D.A.B.C.A. should be made to Command Education Officers.

5. How to use the Projector.

Film strips should always be handled with care to avoid scratchings, damage to the sprocket holes, dirt, dust and finger marks. They are non-inflammable and can be left stationary in the projector quite safely for periods up to about half-an-hour without risk of damage.

Declassified E.O. 12065 Section 3-402/NNDC NO. 725020

The W.D. pattern projectors now in use are of the simplest type and can be operated by anyone after ten minutes' practice. Thus a student can act as projectionist while the instructor stands by the "screen" with his pointer, etc.

The earlier W.D. projector is not claimed to be a perfect instrument, having been produced in quantity with the utmost speed, in spite of war time shortages of labour and material. It will sometimes be found that the focus is not sharp over the entire image but may become slightly blurred towards the edges of the frame.

For this reason the main object of interest on each frame is centred so far as possible. The projector will, however, throw a clear, well-lit image of adequate size on to the wall or screen in a partly lit room. The degree of darkening must be found by trial.

For a class of about 25 students the throw should be about 16 feet, which will give a screen image about 5 feet wide by 4 feet deep. Shorter throws give a clearer but smaller image and vice versa.

All film strip projectors work in more or less the same way. The following is a "drill" for using the W.D. pattern in present use, which can be adapted for almost all types:—

(a) Ensure that the screw plug in the resistance supplied with the projector is in the hole marked with the same voltage as the light supply of the room. This plug must be screwed tightly home.

(b) Plug into the light socket and plug the projector into the resistance. Switch on. The screen will now be illuminated.

(c) Roll the strip, starting with the "End" frame, emulsion (coated or dull) side outwards. Leave 6 to 8 inches hanging free (at the start of the strip).

(d) Insert the roll into the top spool and draw the free length downwards through the slot at the bottom of the spool.

(f) Draw the free length vertically downwards past the gate, making sure that the glossy side is towards the screen, emulsion side towards the lamp.

(g) Fit the strip over the sprockets of the winding mechanism.

(h) Shut the gate by swinging the lens back into position, thus clamping the strip on to the sprockets. See that the strip between top spool and gate is held within the grooves of the feed runway.

(i) Feed the free end into the start of the take-off runway.

(j) Wind the knob clockwise. This moves the strip downward through the gate a space of one frame at a time. The Focus Frame will then appear on the screen. It will probably be out of rack (i.e., not fully on the screen top and bottom). To correct, wind the knob anti-clockwise, during which it will be found to "free-wheel." Wind the top bar of the focus frame to coincide with the bottom of the frame on the screen. On winding forward again the focus frame will come into rack correctly. Always work from the top bar of the frame which is out of rack, winding it to the foot of the screen each time.

(k) When the focus frame is in rack, sharpen the focus by moving the lens in or out as required. The strip is now in rack and in focus.

(l) Wind forward frame by frame through the strip as required. If the instructor wishes to repeat a frame, wind the knob backwards, taking care to bring the frame dead into rack, since the automatic winder does not work in reverse.

(m) While winding the strip forward, make sure it is feeding correctly along the lower (take-off) runway into the take-off spool. It may be necessary to give this spool a few turns by hand at the start of the strip.

(n) On reaching the "End" frame it is not necessary to wind the rest of the strip through the gate. Open the gate and remove the strip complete.

It may be found on some models that the take-off spool and runway does not work properly, kinking or scratching the strip. If such is the case, disregard the lower runway altogether and allow the strip to feed off into space. It will not fall to the ground as it is held in the gate.

Declassified E.O. 12065 Section 3-402/NNNG NO. 785020

6. The Screen.

No special screen is required. The film strip can be projected on to a convenient wall of light colour which is smooth, free from stains, etc. White paper (e.g., the back of a wall chart or map) will give a brighter screen image, or the wall could be painted white. The screen should itself be in a shadow if possible—i.e., at the darkened end of the room.

7. Care of Equipment.

(a) Keep film strips clean. Do not dangle them on the floor. They are non-inflammable but fragile.

(b) Occasionally clean the lens and light-aperture with a soft cloth. The condenser in front of the lamp can be cleaned with a soft brush.

(c) Avoid knocking the lamp when hot—it breaks easily.

(d) Save the lamp as much as possible. Switch off when not in use.

(e) Film will not buckle or burn during projection so long as it is in rack. It is then held between two glass screens.

(f) Be careful of dangling the flex so that someone does not catch his feet and jerk the projector off its stand on to the floor.

(g) Damaged strips will be replaced on application to the area Kinema Section Officer of the A.K.S.

(h) Mount the projector firmly, square on to the wall to throw a correct image. The thumb-screw in the base of the projector raises or lowers the image on the screen.

8. Use of Catalogue.

While film strips are classified under the Arm of the Service or the Corps for which they are produced, it will be found that some film strips may be of value to other Arms and even in some cases to all Arms. Accordingly, an additional column (headed "Other Arms for which Suitable") has been provided for insertion where necessary of details of other Arms for which individual film strips may be used. Instructors should therefore not confine themselves to the Section relating to their own particular Arm or Corps, but should examine other Sections to ascertain details of other film strips which may be shown as applicable to their particular Arm or Corps.

General Purpose Film Strips (Army Education) are applicable to all Arms and therefore no additional column has been provided in Section II.

9. Lecture Notes.

Where Lecture Notes are issued with a film strip, this is indicated by an asterisk (*) at the side of the Film Strip number. Such Lecture Notes should be used whenever they are provided as film strips are not designed to be lessons in themselves.

SECTION 11

GENERAL PURPOSE FILM STRIPS

(Army Education)

FOREWORD

1. All Army Education film strips other than those on Current Affairs have been specially made to illustrate a suggested course of courses to be found in one of the Curriculum handbooks. The key numbers of these courses are given at the end of each entry.

2. The strips have been designed as series in logical sequence and, for their primary purpose, should be shown in the order given. Instructors will find, however, that most strips contain frames useful for illustrating a wider range of topics than that primarily intended.

3. A script to aid instructors is issued with each strip. This should be consulted; it does not provide a complete exposition.

4. Part I of the Method handbooks, Man and Society, and Home and Health, supplies some further hints on the use of film strips.

Directive by the War Office to the Commandants, Staff College, Camberley, and Haifa for the 12 months' Courses due to start in Jan. 1947.

1. The object of the one year courses at CAMBERLEY and HAIFA is to train selected Officers for war, and in so doing to fit them either for Command or for 2nd Grade Staff Appointment.

2. A study of the elements of war, and the art and technique of command is as important as training in staff duties and in fitting the officer for junior staff employment.

3. The instruction will be based on a framework of general military knowledge, and a sound method of approach to military problems of whatever nature. Students must acquire ability to obtain and assess the detailed information necessary to solve any problems and to present solutions clearly and expeditiously. The value of ability to work as one of a team cannot be overstressed.

4. A comprehensive study of the movement and tactical employment of divisions of all types will be made. Students must also have a knowledge of all arms outside the division which are available to support it in battle. In making the study attention will be given to the effect of air power and modern science on tactics. Instruction will also be given in the planning of tactical deception and the means whereby it can be gained. Tactical study will be based upon those War Office publications which define doctrine, and which it is intended to issue from time to time during the coming months.

The air situation for exercises dealing with the various phases of battle will be as follows:-

(a) The attack ..... Air Superiority
(b) Defence ..... Air Parity
(c) Withdrawal ..... Local Air Inferiority.

5. The handling of Air Support, including Air Supply and Air Maintenance will be studied.

6. Combined Operations Exercises will be included with a view

5. The handling of Air Support, including Air Supply and Air Maintenance will be studied.

6. Combined Operations Exercises will be included with a view to giving training in the general principles and an appreciation of the special problems involved.

7. Morale is the most important single factor in war, and particular study will be paid to the elements on which it is based and the means whereby it can be sustained.

301

8. A study of administration in war is as important as that of tactics, and in framing the instruction you should bear in mind that administrative staff appointments far outnumber those of other types.

The main principles of peace-time administration, particularly those connected with personnel and manpower will also be studied.

Declassified E.O. 12065 Section 1-402/NNDC No. 785020

9. A knowledge of the technique of preparing and conducting training and of modern methods of instruction is an essential for any officer. In this connection it is important that, in working out your detailed syllabus, you should seek the advice and help of a War Office Methods of Instruction Team.

10. In working out your syllabus you will follow the principle that students should be worked at the highest possible pressure compatible with the necessity for ensuring that the instruction given by the directing staff does not suffer in consequence. Such time as becomes available as a result of lengthening the course to one year should be used to grant leave rather than to reduce the day to day tempo of work.

11. Care should be taken, when writing the final report on each student, to ensure that it presents a clear picture of his physical, moral and mental attributes. His weaknesses, and there is no officer but has some, should be brought out just as clearly as his good points, so as to enable him to be placed subsequently in such appointments as will be most beneficial to the Service and to himself.

Prego vivamente codesto Ministero compiacersi far eseguire quelle riparazioni necessarie all'apparecchio "Calilla", per poterlo mettere al più presto in funzione presso le predette Scuole.

Sec. 2. TRAINING IN AIRCRAFT RECOGNITION —(cont'd.)
(f) Aircraft Recognition Quiz Films.
NOTE.—These films show flying shots of aircraft, each film covering five aircraft. They are designed to provide a more advanced stage of training than that derived from the use of individual aircraft recognition films. The test element is introduced as a means of stimulating interest, but the object of these films is training, NOT testing.
NOTE.—British Quizcrafts VI, VII, VIII and XV now cover those aircraft, operational in the Far Eastern Theatre which were previously included in Quizcrafts I to X, and in XV. The redundant types of aircraft have been cut from these films and therefore a certain lack of continuity in picture, commentary and sound effects will be noticed. The training value of these recognition films, however, remains quite unaffected.

Note for Instructors:— This film is silent. The Me.163 and Me.262 are very important enemy types. In order that this film cover should be available without delay for training purposes, no commentary has been added to it. The instructor should therefore see the film before it is used in training and prepare his own commentary.

(h) Aircraft of U.S.S.R.
Russian Aircraft	Sep., 1944	B 818	1	C 818	1	11
A silent film which has been assembled from Russian newsreel material available in Great Britain. It is a collection of action shots of some of the best known Russian aircraft including :— Yak Single Seat Fighters, Lagg Single Seat Fighter, IL-2 Stormovik Ground Attack Bomber, MBR-2 Reconnaissance Flying Boat, PE-2 Fighter Bomber, DB-3F Medium Bomber, PS-84 Transport, SB Medium Bomber, TB-7 Heavy Bomber, TB-3 Transport. The shots are in no way ideal, but form a satisfactory illustration for the use of an instructor who wishes to give his class an idea of what the aircraft will look like in flight. In view of this the film is silent and the instructor must add his own comments to back up his previous instruction in the aircraft concerned.

Sec. 18. GEOGRAPHICAL.
"X" Marks the Spot .. .. Maps play an important role in the work of the Army. This film shows the first stage of map reading; it explains the various symbols used on the military map to represent features on the ground.	Sep., 1942	B 358	2	C 358	1	20
Know Your Way .. .. Elementary map reading. Showing various methods of "setting" a map, to establish an exact position on the ground, and how to use and rely upon the map to reach a destination in unfamiliar country.	Sep., 1942	B 359	2	C 359	1	20
Eastern Battleground .. .. An introduction and background to the war against Japan with special reference to Jungle Warfare. The opening sequence shows why we are fighting in the Far East and the importance of beating the Jap. Animated maps illustrate the geography of the Far East and actuality shots show something of the character of the enemy and his preparations for this war. The rest of the film shows the various types of country over which operations will take place. It demonstrates the nature of the obstacles which will have to be overcome and stresses the absolute necessity for every man to be self-supporting in so far as he can be.	May, 1944	B 787	3	C 787	2	37
The Last Enemy (An Australian Training Film) .. The story of how the tables are being turned on a treacherous foe. The difficulties of terrain and of jungle warfare in the South West Pacific Area are graphically demonstrated.	July, 1944	B 1456	5	C 1456	3	57

Air Photo Reading in the Field :—
Part I. The Need for Air Photographs .. .. The object of this film is to show that a vertical air photo generally contains more accurate and up-to-date topographical information than existing maps. Photographs are compared with the latest available maps and, finally, a test run is made to prove the discrepancy between map and ground.	Nov., 1944	F 878	2	C 878	1	17
Part II. How to Read Air Photographs .. .. This film is in two sections. The first deals with the general principles of air photo reading including references to shadows, direction of light and light reflection from various surfaces; in the second section these principles are applied to specific examples.	Jan., 1945	F 879	3	C 879	2	35
Part III. How to Use Air Photographs .. .. This film is designed to show how in practice air photos should be used to supplement information obtained from a map. A patrol is briefed from map and photos and is then seen making use en route of the detailed topographical information thus obtained.	Nov., 1944	F 880	2	C 880	1	18

Sec. 21. INFORMATION, INTELLIGENCE AND SECURITY.
Name, Rank and Number .. .. Interrogation of Prisoners of War—shows the various methods used by German interrogation officers to obtain information from prisoners of war in excess of that which they are required to give under International Law.	1940	B 107	3	C 83	2	36
Know Your Enemy :— Part III. Recognition of German Aircraft .. .. Illustrating types of German aircraft, and drawing attention to the varying features which facilitate recognition.	1944	B 170	3	C 170	2	30
Safeguarding Military Information .. .. .. Stressing the importance of security and showing that by caution and vigilance, events which can have serious results may be averted. (U.S. Army Training Film No. 11-324.)	1941	B 1174	2	C 1174	1	12
Combat Counter-Intelligence .. .. Showing the measures adopted in the U.S. Army to ensure that no article or document is carried into battle by the soldier which will disclose useful information if it should fall into enemy hands.	1942	B 4280	3	C 4280	2	28
Postal Censorship .. .. Showing the danger of giving fragments of information in private correspondence which, when pieced together with similar fragments gleaned from other sources, will give full and vital information to the enemy and will forewarn him of plans for impending operations.	June, 1943	B 445	2	C 445	1	18
"Chatterbug" .. .. Showing the vital need for all ranks to guard their tongues, in all circumstances, both at home and in the field.	June, 1943	B 461	1	C 461	1	9
"Chatterbox" .. .. Warning all ranks of the need for caution in the use of the telephone and explaining that important or secret information must not be conveyed by this means except by code.	Aug., 1943	B 465	2	C 465	1	16
Handling Prisoners of War .. .. The drill for the evacuation of prisoners of war from the battle zone to the collecting point and for ensuring that they are in the right frame of mind for interrogation purposes.	Aug., 1943	B 466	2	C 466	1	13
The Enemy Listens .. .. Signal Security. Shows how simple mistakes in the wording of messages over R/T transmission can give vital information to the enemy.	Dec., 1943	B 707	2	C 707	1	17
Next of Kin .. .. A full length feature film dealing with security. A Brigade Group is trained and equipped for a large scale raid on the French Coast; details of the operation are disclosed to the enemy by careless talk, espionage, etc.; the operation, though successful, proves costly as a result of lack of security. Eastern Battleground—See Section 18.
Security Flashes :—
These short films (average running time four minutes) are designed for showing to audiences as an addition to normal film programmes. In dramatic or humorous vein, each brings home a specific security point. Normally, not more than one should be inserted in each programme of recreational or instructional films.
It might have been you .. .. How pride in one's job or one's own branch of the Service may lead to careless talk.	Sep., 1944	B 873	1	C 873	1	5
Hitler Listens .. .. A simple method of dealing with careless talk.	Sep., 1944	B 874	1	C 874	1	4
Percy and the Censor—A Warner's Warning .. Don't try to evade the censor by promising to tell when you return. Lesson put across by means of a story told by Jack Warner.	Sep., 1944	B 875	1	C 875	1	4
Percy and the Spy—A Warner's Warning .. Emphasizes that spies normally appear to be quite ordinary people. Story told by Jack Warner.	Sep., 1944	B 876	1	C 876	1	5
Bench in the Park .. .. Security is always just as important at home as it is overseas.	Sep., 1944	B 877	1	C 877	1	4
Signal Security (R/T) :—
Muller is Grateful .. .. Designed to impress upon all operators the vital necessity for conforming with standard wireless procedure in order that security may be maintained. It tells the story of an operation in which the enemy was able to build up our order of battle from a few, apparently unimportant, mistakes.	Aug., 1944	B 842	2	C 842	1	22
I'll Tell the World .. .. For officers only, this R/T film illustrates common mistakes made by officers when speaking on the air, such as compromising a code-sign and map reference code, carelessness when using Slidex and veiled speech.	Oct., 1944	B 843	2	C 843	1	18

FOREWORD.

The film has its place in army life as a method of giving instruction, and as a means of recreation. It also performs a third duty, closely connected in practice with its other uses, yet distinct in purpose.

It plays—and can play—an increasing part in keeping the soldier in good heart, reminding him of what he is fighting for, encouraging him to think of the part which he will play in his own community when the war is won, and telling him of the efforts which others are making in their own spheres and in other theatres of war to play their own part in achieving victory.

Part II of this catalogue includes the films now available in the Army Kinematograph Service for these purposes. It will be added to as more films are made available. Some of these are in production now and are planned to meet the demands which are to be expected as the course of the war with Germany points the way to the period of release and resettlement. Those who receive it should study it carefully. They will find it covers a wide range of subjects. Some are for large audiences, some for small; some have a high entertainment value, and some call for concentrated attention. The value of these latter is not always high unless they can be accompanied by lectures or discussions taken by someone who knows the subject.

The mere exhibition of films will, indeed, achieve little. The selection and showing of films, like any other undertaking worth while, must be planned by commanders with the assistance of those responsible for education and welfare. They must bring intelligence and enthusiasm to the task.

Thus the film will take its place, not as a side-line, but as an important agency for achieving the object which is to keep the soldier in good heart for his country's service.

R. F. Adam

Adjutant-General to the Forces.

PART II—GENERAL PURPOSE FILMS

PREFACE

1. General.

Part II of the War Office Film Catalogue, 1944 deals with those films which have been either acquired or produced by the War Office and which do not fall into the category of recreational or training films. Broadly speaking, they can be classed as of general interest and information, although a number are of definite educational value, while others can be used to stimulate discussion on current affairs, post-war problems, etc. If intelligently used they will be found to develop the soldier's capacity for efficient service while under arms and also to foster his natural desire to gain a wider knowledge of the civilian world to which he will return.

2. Types of films.

Most general purpose films are available in both standard size (35-mm.) and sub-standard size (16-mm.). As with training films, each subject is clearly marked with its correct reference number and with either the prefix "B"—indicating a 35-mm. copy, or "C"—indicating a 16-mm. copy. Where both prefixes are quoted both sizes are available.

3. Use of films.

General purpose films can be used either singly (to illustrate lectures or demonstrations), or may be built up into complete and self-sufficient programmes according to their subject matter and the ultimate object which the user has in mind, e.g., education, information, discussion on current affairs, relaxation, or for general morale purposes.

4. Supply of films.

These films are not automatically circulated to static and mobile projector units as in the case of recreational films, but copies are distributed to, and held within, film libraries of A.K.S. sections and at a number of garrison headquarters overseas.

When choice of a film or films required has been determined by the staff or regimental officer concerned on behalf of a formation or unit commander, instructions will be issued to the O.C. the local A.K.S. unit to include the film or films in an agreed exhibition routing programme. Alternatively, if authorized, or if for reason of time it is more convenient, a request for exhibition will be submitted by the O.C. the unit concerned direct to the O.C. the local A.K.S. unit.

Should the required print not be available within the resources of the local A.K.S. unit for exhibition at the required time and place, it is the responsibility of that officer to use his best endeavours to obtain an additional copy through the O.C. the A.K.S. company to which the section is posted.

In all cases when application is submitted for exhibition of any particular film named within the catalogue the applicant will quote precise details of prefix, reference number and required date and place of exhibition.

5. Conditions of exhibition.

In cases of films which are receiving commercial exhibition the War Office has acquired prints with certain restrictions regarding Service exhibition. These restrictions usually take the form of a bar within a certain radius of any established public cinema for a period of time after the film's general release. In every case where there is, or has been, any restriction of this nature the film title in Part II is clearly marked with an asterisk. In all such instances the officer from whom the film is being obtained will be consulted regarding the nature and extent of the restriction, and whether it still applies. It is important that attention be given to this matter, since the disregard of any agreed restriction is in effect the breaking of a contract, which may therefore produce serious repercussions.

6. Other information.

Many of the points in "Notes on the proper use of films as an aid to training" (see Part I, pages ii–v) are also relevant to general purpose films and it is therefore the duty of the intending user of general purpose films to acquaint himself with those items which refer to the supply and use of films in general.

SUBJECT :- Film Projector for Films 35 mm.

'F' British Liaison and Training Unit,
RTC ICF.

Ref G/G.13/515.

23 June 45.

Comando Scuola, CAC FIC.

1. We have today written to MMIA, also been in touch with them on the telephone, asking them to arrange through the Ministry of War in ROME to return forthwith the 35mm projector recently taken from No 1 Regiment.

2. We might mention it is a waste of time preparing Training Programmes, particularly Film Programmes if existing arrangements are interfered with in this way. This is particularly so after all the trouble we have been to in arranging for the 35mm film library and the additional films promised by 54 AKS.

3. At this Centre, with the present amount of Specialised Training taking place, the use of this extra projector is fully warranted and we are relying on its immediate return in order to carry out the standing programmes.
