told you before, you will have to apply to your local Base Sub-area for road vehicles, and to movements Brindisi for train accommodation.

6. You would be advised to bring with you as much of the following articles as you can reasonably do without causing undue hardship:

- a. Office furniture
- b. Beds and mattresses
- c. Tables
- d. Small chairs

The principle that I am going on as regards requisitioning and moving furniture, is as follows: I am only requisitioning articles from empty or damaged public or company buildings, e.g., hotels, offices, furnished apartments, etc. I am not removing any furniture from private houses, flats, etc., which are in occupation.

7. If you have any Italian servants in your area who are good and wish to keep on in the employment of the AGC, it would be a good thing for you to bring them to Salerno. In particular I refer to people like cooks and head waiters. We shall find some difficulty in getting enough good servants for the rather large number of Villas and messes in Salerno and Naples.

8. You kindly sent Moss Vernon a list of officers and enlisted men at Brindisi, but this list contained a number of names of officers who, I am sure, will not come to Salerno. We do require urgently, lists of what you actually propose to bring, namely, officers, enlisted men, vehicles, equipment, and requisitioned goods.

Carl
Brig. E. GURTEBERG.

P.S. I have just heard that the seminary is off, and that the alternative accommodation suggested by the Archbishop for the Italian Government is no good. I am going down to Salerno tomorrow morning to see what can be done. There will inevitably be some delays. I should be glad if you will let me know by cable whether you are prepared to move to Salerno as soon as the AGC accommodation is ready, regardless of whether the Italian Government accommodation is ready.
