The following, received from the State, War, and Navy Departments, is furnished in reply to your PX 68153 dated 23 June 1946.

" If, in the course of negotiations with the Italian Government, the Commanding General finds it desirable to make editorial changes, there would be no objection thereto provided that such changes do not alter the meaning of the approved text. For example, appropriate language may be used, without altering the meaning of the original text, to assure the Italians that it is not intended that the agreement should authorize the purchase or export of works of art.
