Dear Brigadier

The Ambassador, as you know, is away, and I am replying on his behalf to your letter of 2nd. October.

We have considered Captain Vella's case carefully, but unfortunately we know of nothing suitable to offer him. His name is on our files, and we will bear him in mind, in case at any time, an opportunity of employing him should occur.

Yours

2. October 1946

As you may know, Captain Vella of the Allied Commission is very anxious to find civilian employment in this country when he is released from the Army. His release is due to take place this month.

He has, I understand, submitted to you and to Hankay full particulars of his qualifications.

I had many dealings with Captain Vella when he was with the Education Subcommission at Allied Commission H.Q. and I was in the field, and more recently he has been my sole staff officer in the Office of the Vice-President, Civil Affairs Section.

Captain Vella's qualifications including his university training and knowledge of languages speak for themselves. I can add that I have always found Captain Vella a most capable, efficient and conscientious officer and I feel that with his long and intimate knowledge of this country he would be a most valuable asset in some branch of the British Embassy's activities in Italy.

I do not know whether the fact that Captain Vella's wife was an Italian subject would in any way affect this matter. Captain Vella informs me that although his wife was with him he was the only civilian employed in Malta in the Intelligence Branch of the General Staff under Colonel Ede.

Dear

I refer to your G-5: 585.7-2 of 17th January 1947.
I regret the delay in answering your letter, but Colonel Findlay has been away from Rome so frequently that it has not been possible to deal with the matter before.

Colonel Findlay has personally investigated this matter and, I understand, has forwarded to your section a fresh report. I trust that the situation with regard to this matter is now

Dear Sirs:

I am not certain whether you have seen the attached reply by your DP Branch to our letter G-5: 254 of 7 January, asking for a report on the alleged treatment of an ex-Royal Yugoslav Naval Officer at Trani DP Camp, which was forwarded to SACMED by CINCMED. In view of the fact that the letter was signed personally by Admiral Willis, who takes a very keen interest in the welfare of the Yugoslav Naval personnel who fought with the Mediterranean Fleet during the war, I am not quite happy that the investigation has been the fullest which could reasonably have been made under the circumstances. I should have thought that the DP Group Commander might possibly have been asked to go into the matter himself rather than just the Camp Commander, who is a Junior Officer and obviously an interested party.

I don't, for a moment, wish to suggest that anything elaborate in the way of a Court of Inquiry should be set up. That would be a waste of manpower and might encourage further complaints, but before I draft a letter for the Chief of Staff's signature to CINCMED telling him that the matter has been fully investigated and the complaint is unfounded (or words to that effect), I would be grateful for your confirmation that the investigation really has been the best which we can reasonably do.

Yours sincerely,

SUBJECT : Allegations made by Yugoslav DPs transferred from Jezi to No. 4 IC Centre, Trani.

To : Allied Force Headquarters.
Att'n. G-2.

1. The attached allegation is submitted for your consideration, including a report from Group Comendant, No. 19 IC Centre, Jezi, pertaining to investigation of this case which were made on account of this Headquarters having received previous complaints from DPs at No. 4 IC Centre, Trani, especially the case of 15 gold coins having been confiscated together with some gold teeth, from a woman named Vasil Buldo.
2. It is pointed out that the original search of the 300 DPs who were transferred from Jezi on 19 November, was a sequel to the original investigation for the purpose of discovering arms, ammunition and other military equipment which they were alleged to possess.
3. Although the originator of this complaint is endeavouring to obtain recognition for his past loyal service to the Allied cause, investigations of this specific case did not reveal any facts which would justify such allegations being submitted to higher authority.
4. In addition, this person did not state that a considerable number of firearms were found in possession of those Yugoslav DPs, who were included in this group. Knives were taken from them on account of their being of a stiletto type which could not be carried for any good purpose.
5. It is also interesting to note that this person did not state that a large quantity of tobacco was confiscated, including cardboard boxes of cigarette size with a complete set of strings for packing such boxes with the words "Sigaretti Nazionale", but has only endeavoured to create further trouble for the organization which has cared for the welfare of this category of Yugoslav since they have become dissidents, in Italy.
6. In view of all the accusations dated in Allied Commission Groups receiving adequate care and good nations, it was deemed necessary to confiscate the 150 pounds of white flour which was found in the possession of this group, but there was no mention of this commodity in the attached com-

1. The attached allegation is submitted for your consideration, including a report from Camp Commandant, Inc., 10 IX Centre, Jesai, concerning investigations of this case which were made on request of this Headquarters having received previous complaints from it at No. 4 IX Centre, Trani, especially the case of 15 gold coins having been concealed together with some gold teeth, from a woman named Verna Mackie.

2. It is pointed out that the original search of the 300 NPs who were transferred from Jesai on 19 November, was a search to the original investigation for the purpose of discovering arms, ammunition and other military equipment which they were alleged to possess.

3. Although the originator of this complaint is unknown, according to obtain recognition for his past loyal service to the Allied cause, investigations of this specific case did not reveal any facts which would justify such allegations being submitted to higher authority.

4. In addition, this person did not state that a considerable number of fire-arms were found in possession of these Yugoslav NPs, who were included in this group. Natives were taken from NPs on account of their being of a suitable type which could not be carried for any good purpose.

5. It is also interesting to note that this person did not state that a large quantity of tobacco was confiscated, including cardboard boxes of cigarette cases with a complete set of stamps. For marking such boxes with the words "Sigaretten Fabrik", but has only endeavoured to create further trouble for the organisation which has cared for the welfare of this category of Yugoslav since they have become dissidents, in Italy.

6. In view of all NPs accommodated in Allied Commission Camp receiving adequate fare and good rations, it was deemed necessary to confiscate the 150 pounds of white flour which was found in the possession of this group, but there was no mention of this complaint in the attached complaint, neither did the writer mention that the food and other toilet commodities were retained to their owners on instructions from the Camp Commandant.

7. After having carefully investigated these allegations, it is essential to report that there is not the slightest foundation of any truth in the accusations made by the writer, with the exception that this group was subjected to a systematic search for arms, ammunition and other military equipment which they had no right to possess; but at no time was anybody ill-treated as stated in the attached complaint.

8. Whilst the past service of all members of the ex-Yugoslav Navy who loyally served with the Allies is fully appreciated, this naval officer should be reminded that he has had two opportunities of returning to his country of origin, and on each occasion all naval personnel refused this opportunity, yet they have the authority to criticise the British for endeavouring to overcome a security threat amongst Yugoslavs in Allied Commission IX Camps.

(Through Channels)

1. Because of the numerous incidents that have taken place in this Centre regarding the possession and sale of firearms and ammunition by inmates of this Centre to Italian civilians and because of the many incidents between Yugoslav DPs and Italians in many parts of Italy it was requested by the Headquarters of ARSOA that a thorough search be made of the barracks and other living quarters of persons residing in this Centre. This request was coincident with the proposed movement of 300 DPs from this Centre to Trani Centre. A plan was devised whereby a search could be made on the same day at both the railroad station and in the Centre proper.

2. The only interest the writer had in these proceedings was to concentrate the arms and ammunition found on the person or persons and in the living quarters of the inmates of this Centre.

3. Because of the incident in question it was very necessary for the writer to place a restriction on the inmates of this Centre. It would have been impossible to undertake an operation of this kind and size if inmates were permitted to roam about at will.

4. During the search at the Jesi railroad station conducted by the PDS, the Italian gendarmerie, the Office of Pubblica Sicurezza and the Carabinieri, a large quantity of illegally held articles were found and confiscated. The search was neither unusual nor ruthless as related by the writer of the complaint but on the contrary was conducted in a most courteous manner. American soldier Corporal "Elmer Cole" took no active part in the search or in the seizure. It is noted that the writer makes no mention of the fact that several pistols and a large quantity of ammunition was discarded by the DPs on the way to the station and which the writer personally knew about because the undersigned mentioned it to him. It is true that a large quantity of American and British soap was confiscated but the writer makes no mention of the fact that the undersigned had this soap returned to Miss Ruiz, DDC, who returned it to Mr. Litch for distribution. The "pocket knives" that the writer mentions were actually of the stiletto type. White flour which had been hoarded and for which no logical explanation could be made was confiscated. The total weight of this flour amounted to about 150 pounds and was evidently held for resale on the Black Market. A large quantity of loaf tobacco was also confiscated but it is noted that the writer of the complaint makes no mention of the fact that a large number of cardboard boxes of cigarette size together with a stamp set up by which these boxes could be stamped with the words "Sigaretti Nazionali" was also found and confiscated by the gendarmerie. There was no incident made during the search of one of the Italianis searching a "woman" that any indignities were committed. In regard to tools taken from various persons the writer

the arms and ammunition found on the person or persons in the living quarters of the prisoners of this centre.

4. Because of the movement in question it was very necessary for the writer signed to place a restriction on the inmates of this Centre. It could have been impossible to undertake an operation of this kind and size if inmates were permitted to move about at will.

4. During the search at the railroad station conducted by the PSS, the Italian writer, the Office of Pubblica Sicurezza and the Garibaldi, a large quantity of illegally held articles were found and confiscated. The search was neither unusual nor ruthless as related by the writer of the complaint but on the contrary was conducted in a most courteous manner. American soldier Corporal Miller Cole took no active part in the search or in the seizure. It is noted that the writer makes no mention of the fact that several pistols and a large quantity of ammunition was discarded by the PSS on the way to the station and which the writer personally knew about because the authorities mentioned it to him. It is true that a large quantity of American and British soap was confiscated but the writer makes no mention of the fact that the unscrupulous had this soap returned to Miss Rudge, BBC, who returned it to Mr. Litlich for distribution. The "pocket knives" that the writer mentions were actually of the stiletto type. This flour which had been hoarded and for which no logical explanation could be made was confiscated. The total weight of this flour amounted to about 150 pounds and was evidently held for resale on the Black Market. A large quantity of leaf tobacco was also confiscated but it is noted that the writer of the complaint makes no mention of the fact that a large number of cardboard boxes of cigarette size together with a stamp set up by which these boxes could be stamped with the words "Sigaretti Nazionale" was also found and confiscated by the writer. There was no incident made during the search of "one of the Italians searching a woman" that any indecency was committed. In regard to tools taken from various persons the writer signed has no knowledge. The unscrupulous officer made many trips to the station during the morning of the departure and noticed that there was no evidence of there having been any disorder such as the writer mentions.

5. The unscrupulous men told that several old coins were confiscated from one of the refugees and immediately called the PSS agent and was personally assured that a proper receipt was given to Basic Vass for the amount of money taken. It is true that the train sections had been looted but provisions for the opening the ~~the~~ doors of the coaches was made by the unscrupulous with the British who so that the food distribution could be made.

Dear Sir,

After the end of the war and disarrangement on Malta in August of last year, the officers, NCOS and sailors of the ex R.Y.N. were sent to Italy - in a Displaced Persons Camp in Chiavavalle. There, we were mixed with various other refugees and DPs and treated as such. What that treatment is like you will learn from the second part of this letter. From Chiavavalle we were moved to Jesi, a few miles away, just over a year ago.

On the 19th of the last month, a group of officers and sailors, alongside with some 300 of various other refugees was being transferred from the camp to Jesi, Mr. Ancora, to another in Trans, ar. Bari. We were put in lorries and taken to the station of Jesi early in the morning. To our great surprise the station and all around it was guarded by an unusual number of Italian police, armed with Tommy-guns - many of them in plain clothes. Before entering in the train, about a dozen of them began to search us and our belongings. To begin with everybody was searched personally and money was taken from those on whom they found it as much as the man who was doing the search deemed it necessary. Bari. We were put in lorries and taken to the station of Jesi early in the morning. To our great surprise the station and all around it was guarded by an unusual number of Italian police, armed with Tommy-guns - many of them in plain clothes. Before entering in the train, about a dozen of them began to search us and our belongings. To begin with everybody was searched personally and money was taken from those on whom they found it as much as the man who was doing the search deemed it necessary. Next came the persons kit, which was emptied on the ground in such a way that everything that was breakable got broken. Having done that the Italian agents began picking out things and taking anything of value that they happened to like. From some wireless sets were taken, from other washing soap, toilet soap or shaving soap, tooth paste, nail-scissors (if they were of good quality) knives, baccas etc. All these goods are on sale in Italy without any restriction imposed on them, but don't exist any regulation that a person cannot take them from one place to another when moving.

It was natural that some began to protest against such behaviour, thinking that the Italians were doing this on their own, i.e. without the knowledges or permission of the British authorities, under whose protection we are. However, we soon found out that this was done under the high protecting of the British authorities, for, alongside this Italian Armatia there was a British M.P., too. Anyone who protested against such behaviour, the Italian dragged to this M.P., who would hit them or give them a slap in the face or knock him against the carriage, where he would get hurt on the head or elsewhere. When the Italians saw the example set to them, they soon surpassed the British M.P., hitting people left and right. The Italian agents went further and pulled out their pistols pointing them at people. One of the agents, without any reason whatsoever pointed out his pistol on the chest of Commander Savisa Bogosavljevitch. Fortunately that this commander is unusually cool-headed man and just smiled at such a best. It is more than certain that should there have been someone else in his place, anything might have happened. Lt. Colocel wanted to fill his bottle with water, but not only that he was not allowed that, but was drugged away from the fountain by another Italian's pistol. I repeat that all this was done without any excuse whatsoever, that might have been given by any one of the displaced persons.

Having shown their unrestricted might in such a way, frightening the unfortunate refugees, the Italian authorities proceeded in taking away from people whatever they fancied, without giving any receipt for it. The culmination was reached when the agents began searching women, far more "thoroughly" than it was necessary. When husbands or friends of these women began to protest against such unabashed indiscernency, the agents would just hit any of them who dared to protest - and the result was crying and sobbing of many women and children in vain. These "heroes" went so far that they even hit a deaf and dumb woman on the head because she did not hear she told to raise her hands up. Then my turn for search came, my kitbag and suit case were recklessly emptied on the ground breaking a bulb, my mirror that I use for shaving, a frame with a photograph of my wife and a box made of sea-shells - my treasured souvenir which I bought in Tripolis during the war. Then the agents started tearing what they fancied. They took away from me three bars of washing soap, one shaving stick, one knife which I used when I bathed type of soap-suds makers and Then the agents started taking what they fancied. They took away from me three bars of washing soap, one shaving stick, one knife which I used when fishing, tube of tooth-paste, nail scissors and a pair of leather soles. After the search was over, one of the agents remembered that my wireless set was rather a valuable thing and took another look at it. When he saw that it was a Greeley make - he took it. Others who had proper wireless sets "fared better".

The English S.P. watched all this, giving his consent. Although this S.P. spoke fluent English and was in full uniform, I could not believe that he was English, as I just could not imagine that such a thing could happen. Young gentleman, Mr. Jack was holding a C.I. with one hand hitting him with the other, an Italian spoke to me: "Serves you right, - these are your dear Allies for whom you fought against us". I just did not know whether I was more ashamed of this young man who was here representing the authority of the British, or the sarcastic Italian. If I did not know the order and discipline prevailing with the British S.P.s, I would have thought that this man was nothing on his own. I feel more ashamed for the behaviour of the British and feel certain that no Englishman could be proud of him either.

I know, Dear Sir, that you have nothing to do with the British Police, nor with the best sellers under your command, who have done their job. I know that for a thing like this I should go to my camp superiors, but as you can see no law applies for us and anybody can do with us what he pleases. I am writing this to you for the sake of information, thinking that it may be of interest to you. No doubt that you know as well as I do that the British have disappointed many peoples of the world - in particular in this the case in Europe, which is noticeable everywhere. There is an radius away from the fact that the British are not liked by the peoples of other nationalities. If anything the reverse is the case. And I have often wondered whence comes this hatred towards such quiet, noble and well-manning gentlemen bearers of democracy and freedom. I thought that it was of some clever propaganda. But after the event of the 19th of the last month, on the railway station in Jassi, it is pretty clear to me. It is more than sufficient that only a few such cases, at this rate, happened - caused by a Mr. Jack, to cause people hate the name of the English. For me, this problem is of interest, but for you - I feel sure it is a worry too. In vain are the discussions in the British Parliament now to regain the sympathies for the English in the world, when such pollutes as this Mr. Jack, ruin all that.

My men of the former Royal Yugoslav Navy have had up to now excellent opinion and respect for the English as a whole, but I am fearing that they may change it. After all that has happened, I just dare not intervene for the English when a discussion creeps up.

As a naval officer for years, I have travelled far and wide, and seen many things, but I have not seen anything like what I saw happen on the 19th of November of this year. I am not asking, Dear Sir, for remuneration for the damage suffered, but having had this honour to serve under you I wish to bring to your notice this unusual happenings - just for your information. Attention G-5 Section.

1. With reference to the attached complaint made by Comodore Radosir POPOVITCH, Senior Officer of the ex R.Y.S., forwarded by the British Commander in Chief, Mediterranean.

2. The following points are pertinent:

a. Although the bulk of the ex RY Naval personnel, who were with the British in Malta, were originally in this camp, the great majority in November were employed on guard and police duties in other camps, and there were only a few ex-naval personnel amongst the refugees in question.

b. There had been continual complaints about displaced persons in this camp for some time, particularly as regards being in possession of arms and various black market activities.

c. It must be remembered that Italy in November was practically a sovereign nation and has certain rights and duties to perform, particularly in respect to illegal possession of arms.

d. The search for arms etc. was carried out simultaneously in charge of the camp was single-handed and had to supervise both searches. One American private and one British officer of the Field Security Section were on duty at the railway station supervising the search by the Italian police. The allied officer visited the station on several occasions during the morning and saw nothing unusual suspecting.

e. The refugee "Fair Leader" (British not ex-serval) on arrival at his new camp reported certain complaints regarding the search in writing to his new camp commander. This was forwarded to Headquarters, Displaced Persons Division, and investigated.

1. With reference to the attached complaint made by Commodore Radomir ROMANOVICH, Senior Officer of the ex R.V.R., forwarded by the British Comander in Chief, Mediterranean.

2. The following points are pertinent:

a. Although the bulk of the ex R.V.R. Naval personnel, who were with the British in Malta, were originally in this camp, the great majority in November were employed in guard and police duties in other camps, etc; there were only a few ex-naval personnel amongst the refugees in question.

b. There had been continual complaints about displaced persons in this camp for some time, particularly as regards being in possession of arms and various black market activities.

- c. It must be remembered that Italy in November was practically a sovereign nation and no certain rights and duties to perform, particularly in respect to illegal possession of arms.
- d. The search for arms etc., was carried out simultaneously at the ex Camp and the station soon after November 11th in charge of the camp was Mr. Lyle Morris, the Italian officer Security Sector were on duty in the Displaced Persons Division of the Field Headquarters, Displaced Persons Division, and was investigating the matter.
- e. The refugee "Zait Leader" (Mithaq not ex-naval) on arrival at his new camp reported certain complaints regarding the search in writing to his new camp commander. This was forwarded to Headquarters, Displaced Persons Division, and was investigated early in December.
- f. The then-Comander of the group of camps and licensee the American private and security company have left this country.
- g. I have interviewed personally the Camp Comander. He confirmed that arms were confiscated, likewise a considerable amount of black market tobacco, also some quantities of soap, flour, etc., which were in the possession of individual refugees in larger quantities than would be possible by normal distribution. There is no doubt it is the usual practice amongst these people for the women to congregate to that particular destination. Certain things which had been confiscated by the Italian police were given back on order of the Camp Comander, and for certain items to person concerned was given a receipt. In the case of certain goods, like coins, these have since been returned to the same.

In the ex-members of the Royal Yugoslav Navy have done excellent work in many ways in which they have been employed as police, but short of it is a question of searching for arms and black market articles, it is essential that they should be searched like others, as there are black sheep in every fold. In my opinion the Army Commander made all the arrangements that were possible under the circumstances and supervised them as adequately as possible.

17th February 1947

Many thanks for your PC/103 of the 13th February 1947. I did tell Bowman that I should very much like to make a visit up North. I have, however, no idea as to whether or when such a visit might be possible.

I am sorry to hear that you have been on the sick list and that you are going off to Cortina for a while.

If I am still here I will give consideration to coming up to see you when you get back.

You will be pleased to hear that the financial authorities have agreed to an increase of the grant towards the entertainment you gave in January, and I am sending a letter approving a grant of Lire 43,300.

22nd January 1947

You left with me a copy of G-5:321.01 of January 1947 on the subject of residual military functions for any comment I might care to make. The only comments I have are on matters of detail.

I notice that the Allied Screening Agency is included in para 5 of the letter but no provision is made for this organization in the tentative war establishment. I presume this organization is that with which Dr. Royce is concerned and not the existing Allied Screening Commission and that the strength of personnel is not yet known.

As regards the tentative war establishment, I believe that AF have a present strength of five officers, and I am not clear why they should require ten for AFIA. Similarly AFIA are, I think, above present strength.

Otherwise I have no comment.

C-5: 321.01

January 1947

SUBJECT: Residual Military Functions.

TO : The Chief of Staff.

1. It is evident that certain residual military duties will remain, after disbandment of presently responsible agencies. Certain Allied functions must be liquidated after the disbandment of AFHQ regardless of whether this disbandment is on R Day or postponed until R + 90. Certain US and British Theater responsibilities will likewise remain after the two Theaters are disbanded. For this study it is assumed that the Theaters will not be disbanded until R Day or shortly prior thereto.

2. While some of these residual functions, both Allied and National, can be transferred to permanent agencies outside of Italy, several of them can effectively be handled only in Italy. The only US/UK agencies remaining permanently in Italy are the two Embassies. From the National Military viewpoint these two Embassies could take over and eventually liquidate the national residual functions. They could not however take over the Allied functions. In practice however the Embassies are poorly equipped to carry out the military residual functions, and generally speaking cannot do so unless complete and functioning staffs are turned over to them by the military authorities. Even then it is doubtful if the necessary coordination and supervision could be provided. The chief advantage of turning residual functions over to the Embassies is that the residual staff would presumably have diplomatic standing. This could however be overcome by agreement with Italy to give necessary immunities.

3. There was set up in France after the termination of combined command an organization known as Combined Administrative Liquidating Agency (CALA). This was a small committee to dispose of certain matters of a combined nature which could not be delegated to national theater commanders. It was established under a directive from the CCS. It confined its efforts to liquidation and assumed no new functions unless approved by proper US and British authorities. On combined matters it dealt with the Combined Civil Affairs Committee, Washington. On national matters communication was direct to respective national authorities. The US senior representative (Lt. Gen'l. John C.H. Lee) was appointed by USFET. The manner of appointment of the Senior British representative (Lt.Gen'l. Sir Humphrey M. Gale) is not known. A definite terms of reference was given each Senior Representative by SHAEF.

4. While not of the same magnitude or complexity the same problems in principle exist in Italy. There is added one feature in Italy which did not exist in France. There, the machinery of the national theaters remained in being to liquidate the national residual functions. In Italy the national theaters will cease to exist by R + 90. It would appear that the agency set up in Italy to liquidate the Allied functions could absorb the liquidation of the National functions by consolidating all agencies into one group, thus saving overhead and accommodation.

5. From the Allied viewpoint, among the agencies which cannot close their duties prior to R + 90, are:

Allied Finance Agency
Allied Supplies Accounting Agency
Allied Screening Agency
Allied Forces Records Administration
Alcom Legal Branch
Certification Agency for Allied Obligations
Historical Section GACCS

6. From the US viewpoint among the agencies required are:

Claims Section
Central Funding Office
Graves Registration (Not further considered as separate agreements exist for its continuation)
War Criminals wanted by US
Demilitarization of US Ammunition
Transportation of War Wives to US.

7. From the British viewpoint among the agencies required are:

Italian Prisoners of War held by British Claims and Writings
Ministry of Supply Disposals
Liquidation MAIFI/EFI stocks
Army Graves Registration Section
MRE RAF (Searching for deceased airmen)

8. In addition to the above, there will be certain correspondence "in the mill" which will have to be redirected or handled locally.

9. There is attached hereto a proposed directive (terms of reference) for the recommended liquidating organization, and skeleton war establishment (table of organization) together with a sketch of the strengths required. No directive for the national theater contingent is enclosed as that is believed to be a matter for theater consideration. However, by close coordination there can be an integration of staffs and dual assignments to economize personnel and funds and expedite liquidation.

10. To perform its functions properly the agency should be located in Rome where it will be close to the Embassies and the Italian Government. It should be set up and ready to function on the abolition of AFHQ. While the agency should not in any way be considered the successor of either AFHQ or Alcom it can serve as a liaison agency for the US/UK commander in TFT. The agency should seek the advice continuously of the US/UK Embassies and work in closest cooperation therewith with a view of transferring eventually certain functions thereto. As the agency will be a collection of specialist groups engaged in specific duties no one presently existing AFHQ or Allied organization can be considered the parent organization. If and when LACAB (Liaison and Civil Affairs Branch) is set up on the abolishment of ALCOM it can furnish the nucleus for the administrative overhead to coordinate the work of the various groups.

11. To prevent confusion with CALA which still exists and to describe its functions it is proposed that the agency be termed Allied Liquidating Agency (Short title ALA).

SUBJECT: Directive to Allied ^{force} Liquidating Agency (ALA) ^{BELA}

TO : Colonel A.L. Hamblen U.S. (Br)
Colonel BR. (US)

1. You are appointed as Head and Deputy Head respectively of the Allied ^{Force} Liquidating Agency (ALA)

RESPONSIBILITY

2. You are responsible jointly to the U.S. War Department and the British War Office.

FUNCTIONS

3. Your agency will come into being on the dissolution of AFHQ. Your principal duty will be the speedy dissolution of any combined or allied administrative machinery which may be left after the termination of allied command. You will be provided with suitable U.S. and British staffs for this task. When functions cannot be liquidated within a reasonable period (6 months) it will be your policy to hand them over to other appropriate agencies as soon as they are prepared to accept the responsibilities involved. Accordingly your agency will progressively be reduced in size.

4. At appendix A are matters of an allied nature as presently known. No additional allied duties will be undertaken without instructions from AFHQ, and after the abolition of AFHQ, only those mutually agreed by the War Department and the War Office. For administrative convenience there will be attached to your agency under command of the respective U.S. and British Heads certain U.S. and British personnel engaged in liquidating U.S. and British theater functions. The functions assigned such personnel will be as directed by COMGEMCOM and COGEMC CMF. Such functions will not be considered as justification for the perpetuation of ALA after its allied duties have ceased.

CHANNELS OF COMMUNICATION

5. (a) Your agency may correspond with any agency including the Italian government and the U.S. and British Embassies on matters within the preview of this directive. On allied policy and financial matters you will make no commitments without prior approval of both the War Department and the War Office.

1073
Declassified E.O. 12356 Section 3.3/NND No. 785017

101

(b) You will normally receive your instructions from the War Department and the War Office. On specific matters you will conform to instructions from the CCS. Communications with the CCS will be thru AGWAR with copies to EGS.

(c) In matters affecting Italy you will keep in close and constant touch with the U.S. and British Embassies, and seek their advice and counsel. In case of their non concurrence in any matter within their preview you will delay action pending instructions from the War Department and the War Office Staff.

6. A summary of the initial war establishment (Table of Organization) is attached. Common equipment and accommodation as necessary will be furnished on a parity (US/UK) basis. Each nation (US/UK) will be responsible for the care and maintenance of its own personnel.

REPORTS

7. You will make periodic reports of progress to the War Department and the War Office, and make such recommendations in reduction in strength and functions, and otherwise as are pertinent.

LOCATION

8. Your agency will be located in Rome.

SIGNAL COMMUNICATIONS AND ADDRESSING OF CORRESPONDENCE

9. (a) For wireless and letter correspondence the facilities of the U.S. and British Embassies will be used, supplemented by such commercial wireless, telegraph and postal services as may be necessary.

(b) Your official title and address will be: for official mail, wireless and telegraph: ~~AIA~~ C/O U.S. Embassy Rome (or c/o British Embassy Rome..).

SUBJECT: Handback of Territory

TO : Chief Commissioner,
Allied Commission,

(89)

1. Letter of the Executive Commissioner dated 16 December, file 3/DO/ECC concerning handover documents in respect of AMG territory refers.

2. The questions raised in the enclosure to the above noted letter have not been resolved. There is grave doubt as to whether any handover documents are proper or legal. The handover of documents in previous cases where territory was released from AMG control were imposed upon the Italian Government as a condition of return back. So far as is known no such undertaking is referred to or authorized by the Peace Treaty. The Italians may well refuse to sign such an undertaking, and their failure to do so does not preclude the territory from returning to Italian control.

3. Unless therefore the Italian Government undertakes voluntarily to legalize the actions of our military government they become non-effective upon the ratification of the peace Treaty. The same situation exists with respect of territory transferred to France, to Yugoslavia and to Trieste Free State. It is the present view that no signatures, or acts by us are necessary to give each of these countries their rights, nor are they bound to do any acts or sign any documents which we may present to them. They receive their titles direct from the Peace Treaty.

4. One of the particular problems which arises hereby is the status of those sentenced by AMG courts and who now are in confinement in various areas. No guidance has been received from higher authority on this or similar civil affairs matters. As soon as the reports showing problems involved are received from the various civil affairs agencies recommendations will be made and guidance sought from such authorities.

5. As this problem is only one of many, it is undesirable to treat it as a separate issue. You are, however, free to express further views if you so wish.

I do not know whether you have taken any action in this matter or whether there have been any developments but I consider in your own interests that an early settlement should be effected. I understand that there is a possibility that Colonel Fiske may be leaving the Commission shortly.

We have lately received demands from the Command Paymaster for settlement of these outstanding bills and these have been returned to him pointing out that the Allied Commission has no responsibility for them.

December 1946

Dear Mogadishu,

You will remember that the other day we discussed the question of the Allied Commission acting as a channel of communication between the governments of ex-Italian Colonies which are now under British Military Administration and the Italian Government. At the time, I expressed the view that this was not a proper function of the Commission. I am still of the same opinion, but a situation has now arisen in connection with spares for public utility equipment in ^{SOMALIA} which I think we will have to ask you to take action. The position is as follows:

On 22 and 23 October 1946, GHQ, MELF, forwarded the attached indents for machinery for the Mogadishu Power Station and the Societa Agricola Itale Coloniale, Somalia. In pursuance of our policy, we despatched the attached signal C-66296 of 6 November 1946 to the War Office. At the same time, however, in order not to delay the business unduly while we were haggling over the procedure, we asked GHQ CMF to ascertain through their Ordnance procurement channels the availability and prices of the spares which MELF require. GHQ have now replied that they have no longer the resources to undertake this commitment, so we are back where we started.

In the circumstances, I do not think it is right for us to do nothing about MELF's demands while we are awaiting the War Office's reply to our signal of 6 November 1946.

I would therefore be grateful if your Economics Branch will undertake the task of finding out the availability and prices of the items on the attached demands from the Italian manufacturers.

As this is a purely British matter, and I am asking you, as a matter of expediency, to do something which is directly contrary to the AFHQ policy, I think it would be advisable if Subject: Cereal situation - Italy.

Dear Brigadier Carr:

1. Reference the following excerpt from the minutes of the Allied Commission staff meeting held on October 30, 1946:

"The Combined Food Board cereal allocation for Italy for the balance of the year is equivalent to 100,000 tons of wheat. The amassing is expected to produce an additional 15 days' supply. The situation is very serious and any shortage in the program will likely require a cut in the ration early in 1947. In any event, it appears a cut will be necessary before the 1947 harvest. The Italian Government has been informed of this situation by UNRRA."

2. I should like to furnish some additional facts on the situation which you may wish to bring to the attention of the Allied Commission.

3. The cereal allocation for Italy for the fourth quarter of 1946 was in the first instance 120,000 tons of wheat. News has recently been received that this allocation has been supplemented by an extraordinary authority to purchase 86,400 tons of flour, equivalent to an additional 120,000 tons of wheat.

4. The further amassing of wheat alone is expected to produce an additional 15 days' supply. In addition to this, however, there should be an additional amount of about 500,000 tons of corn and rice amassed.

5. We have not discussed with the Italian Government the possibility that a cut in the bread and/or pasta ration may be necessary. We have been discussing with the government the necessity for tiding over the present temporary shortage of cereals in the south of Italy and Sicily, caused by the suspension of shipments due to the maritime strike in the U.S.A., by the adoption of an emergency transport program.

6. In our judgment, it is premature at this moment to make any decision with respect to a possible ration cut. The over-all stocks in the country at the moment, though unevenly distributed, are reasonably good, and we are still confident of a substantial further amount of cereals being unamassed. With regard to the immediate and future outlook, there are two uncertain factors. The first is the rate of arrivals of cereals from now until the end of the year.. The situation with regard to this at the moment is still not very clear, but most recent indications are that the outlook is slightly more favorable than it was a few days ago, and we are in reasonable hopes of the rate of shipment being stepped up and maintained.

7. The second uncertain factor is the allocation of cereals that have to be made for the first quarter of 1947. If a substantial allocation is made as we hope, there should be no deterioration in the situation . We should be glad if the Allied Commission can do anything it possibly can to support the present efforts being made by UNRRA and by the U.S. Embassy to obtain a favorable allocation.

8. I'll be glad, if you think it necessary, to discuss the matter further with the Admiral or yourself.

Yours sincerely,

Harlan Cleveland

27 November 1946.

Very many thanks for your letter of 25 November 1946 on the subject of the cereal situation in Italy. I have discussed your letter with the Chief Commissioner.

The reference to a possible cut in the ration in 1947 was an expression of opinion by the Economic Division of this Commission but I agree that this is not clear in the extract from the minutes to which you refer—the reference to the possible ration cut should have come after the last sentence of the extract quote.

The additional facts on the situation given in your letter have been noted. I will pass them to the Economic Division to ensure that the information is up to date.

The Chief Commissioner has asked me to point out that really up-to-date information would be available to the weekly staff meeting of this Commission if UNRRA could make more use of the invitation to attend these meetings. As you are aware we shall always be only too pleased to see either yourself or a representative such as Major Eric at the weekly staff meetings.

I referred your letter of 15 November 1946 on the subject of accommodation for the Migration Department of the Italian Ministry of Labour to the Deputy Commander, R.A.C.

He has replied that there is really nothing he can do to help the Ministry of Labour. Whenever property is ~~dis~~requisitioned it is to be handed over empty by the military authorities to the Gendo Militare which office is understood then allocates according to Italian demands.

The only information we can give is that it is hoped to ~~dis~~requisition the offices to the HQ of the Allied Commission at some early date so far not decided. There is some spare accommodation in this annex but until it is ~~dis~~requisitioned permission cannot be given for the Italian Ministry of Labour to occupy any of the accommodation.

I suggest that the Director of the Migration Department should keep in close touch with the appropriate Italian authorities in this matter, presumably the Gendo Militare.

21st November, 1946

Thank you for your letter of the 18th November, enclosing a letter from the British Embassy, dated 15 November, the subject of which is office accommodation for the Italian Ministry of Labour.

Whenever property is derequisitioned it has to be handed over empty by this Headquarters to the Genio Militare which office then allots it according to Italian demands. There is, therefore, very little I can do to help the Ministry other than to inform that it is hoped to derequisition the annex at some early date so far not decided.

Until the building is derequisitioned it would be improper and probably cause much inconvenience to permit the Italian Ministry of Labour to occupy any accommodation in the hopes of getting it when released.

Dear Carr,

The Italian Minister of Labour is developing an Emigration Department to control the transfer of Italian workers to work abroad and, as you probably know, we are trying to recruit some thousands of Italian foundry men for work in the United Kingdom.

The Director of the Emigration Department has asked for assistance in obtaining office space of 15 to 20 rooms, and suggests some of the office space hitherto used by the Allies might be available.

I wonder if you could pass this on to the proper quarter with some support? From the Italian point of view it is important that they should be assisted to export labour as much as possible - it is almost their principal exportable commodity - and from our point of view since we are trying to get the best types of Italian workers to come to U.K. to meet our needs, it would be of considerable assistance if you could help in this direction.

Dear Sirs,

The Supreme Allied Commander has had a letter from Field-Marshal Alexander, in which the latter asked for his thanks to be conveyed to some toy factory at Terni for some toys they sent him.

I am afraid this is a very tiresome one, but I would be so grateful if you could ask the next Officer you have going up that way to call in and thank them on the Field Marshal's behalf. The F.M. said they were beautifully made, and he really was most grateful for them.

Dear

I am enclosing a memorandum containing the opinion of the Chief Commissioner, Allied Commission, in regard to the matter of lodging any protest with the Italian Government in respect of bomb outrages which occurred at the British Embassy on the early morning of the 31st October 1946.

The Chief Commissioner has communicated unofficially his opinion to A.F.M.Q. who have signified their agreement.

The point at issue is whether the allied command or the supreme allied commander, through the medium of the allied commandation, should lodge a protest with the Italian government in regard to the recent outrage at the British embassy on the early morning of the 31st October 1944.

The incident was a violation of civil law and order for which the Italian government is responsible in the territory in which the outrage occurred. British military interests were involved.

From the point of view of local protection it is understood that the Italian police employed on the external protection of the British embassy act under the orders of the Italian police authorities.

It is the chief commandant's opinion that the responsibility for lodging any protest with the Italian Government or for seeking from the Italian Government compensation or an assurance against any repetition of such an outrage rests at this stage with His Majesty's Government. If, as a result of any such representation and subsequent negotiations, the action taken by the Italian Government is not considered by His Majesty's Government to be adequate a otherwise satisfactory it will be for consideration by His Majesty's Government as to whether they should take appropriate action to have instructions issued to the Supreme Allied Commander directing him to demand, through the medium of the Allied Commission, from the Italian Government compliance with the requirements of His Majesty's Government.

23rd July, 1946

I think it is well to put on record the substance of our conversation yesterday with regard to the passages of our Security Summary No 25 which dealt with the Police Forces, and the exception taken to them by your Public Safety Branch.

You will remember that the Public Safety Branch began their comments by saying that "there never was the slightest doubt but that the Carabinieri would carry out their duties in an impartial and non-political manner" or words to that effect. I commented that no doubt the Public Safety Branch had never had any doubt on this score but that I believed that political extremists on both sides had entertained fears or hopes as the case might be, and that therefore the Public Safety Branch was going rather too far. You will recall that I restrained from passing judgement as to whether there was any justification for such hopes or fears.

The Public Safety Branch then took exception to "the statement" that the Carabinieri could not be entrusted or used in actual police work. I pointed out that this was taken out of its context and that a statement had been attributed to us which we had not made. The full text ran "a decision was reached in high police circles that the Carabinieri etc". We made no statement as to the quality of the Carabinieri but we had very good reason to believe that such a decision was reached.

Exception was also taken to the description of the police organization in Rome in June 1944 as "incompetent, demoralized, badly clothed and fed and unarmed". Myself I would perhaps have omitted the word "incompetent" but otherwise the description is fully in accordance with the evidence of my own eyes and ears at the time. I remember very well how at that time we had constant representations about the state of the Police: I remember myself being taken to see the state of their accommodation, clothing and feeding: I remember how at that time the Public Safety Liaison officers were constantly telling me at what a handicap the police were indeed at that time made representations to HQ A.A.I. which I believe helped in improving their conditions. In this sentence when I say 'police' I mean 'police forces' including the O.C.R.R. As regards this passage, therefore, I personally fully substantiate all but one word of what was written in our Summary.

As to the passage "Allied aid was offered a few days prior to the elections", the reference is to a visit paid to the Chief of the Police by a Senior Officer of HQ A.C. (said to have been yourself) at which an offer was made of the use of a factory to turn out arms for the police.

The last point was the statement that the Police actually carried out raids and stole arms. I point out that we did not say that they had actually done so but we said that it was rumoured that they had done so. In point of fact we have very good reason to believe that in fact the police did appropriate to their own use arms confiscated in the course of police operations. That of course is not stealing and perhaps it was unfortunate to have to say so.

This Headquarters indeed at that time made representations to HQ A.I.I. which I believe helped in improving their conditions. In this sentence when I say 'police' I mean 'police forces' including the C.C.R.R. That of course is not stealing and perhaps it was unfortunate to use the word "stole". The effect, however, is much the same and the whole point of the passage was that the police were reduced to extreme measures of improvisation to obtain for themselves the arms that they considered necessary.

On the whole our Summary rather pictures a successful struggle put up by the police to surmount difficulties and I believe is not derogatory. I can not at least believe that the Public Safety Branch will take exception to the following passage "despite the numerous obstacles encountered and hurdled the police did a magnificent job which turned out for the betterment of all concerned".

Dear

There is, I understand, a Signal Corps Officer's Mess at No. 8 Via della Villa Saccobotti. I only came into this matter because the family living in the flat below the Mess are Genoese and I happened to get to know them when I was Regional Commissioner in Genoa about a year ago.

I understand that the flat in which the Signal Corps Mess is located is owned by a family called Pratesi, and on one or two occasions in the past they have asked me through the Genoese family, or when I have met them there, whether I could do anything to assist in getting the flat de-requisitioned. I have always hedged and never taken any action.

Apparently the problem with the Pratesi's is that they have a family of seven children and as their flat has been requisitioned since the days of the occupation of Rome, the family has been compelled to live some considerable distance away in the country with the result that the children's education has been seriously jeopardised. That is the reason which has been given to me.

There is now a report that the Signal Corps Mess is closing down, and I have been asked whether I can do anything to avoid further military occupation of this particular flat so that it can be de-requisitioned and allow this large family to return to Rome.

I advised the head of the Genoese family, a Count d'Avila who is at present looking after the Pratesi's interests, and who, incidentally used to work for this Commission and is still working in this building for UNRRA, to go and see your Real Estate Section. I did, however, promise him I would drop someone at your Headquarters a line on the subject.

I know your Real Estate Section will deal with a case like this on its merits vis a vis other requisitions, and if they do see this note I do not, of course, want any special consideration given to the case because I have written on the subject. This suddenly applies to almost

Dear Brigadier

As you are probably aware the shortage of Legal Officers in this headquarters is so acute that it is nearly becoming impossible for the Legal Division to carry on.

I have heard unofficially that Major Reakes would be very willing to come here and that he has taken on for another year. I know he is one of your chief staff officers but it is possible that you are now in a position to spare him. Colonel Bowman and I have discussed the matter and I thought perhaps, a private letter to you asking for your help in this matter might go a long way. If you can spare this officer I can assure you we can make the greatest use of him up here.

I do hope that you and Mrs. Carr are keeping fit and well and that Rome is not too hot. It has been fairly peaceful here but just lately disorders have broken out again and anything may happen in the next few days. We hope for the best. As you probably realize, the greater the disorders the greater the need for Legal Officers.

Rome, Italy.

Dear Brigadier Carr,

This letter will introduce Dr. Francesco Riccio, who is planning on setting up in medical practice in Rome.

Dr. Riccio arrived from the United States on the SS Vulcania, 21 May. While on board he met my wife, and the wives of a number of other US officers.

He has been practicing medicine in Boston for about eight years. On his return to Italy he brought with him 230 vials of penicillin, which he expected to use in his practice here in Italy.

Dr. Riccio informs me that he was told in Boston that there was no restriction on the drugs he could bring into Italy, other than narcotics. Apparently now he cannot dispense these drugs on his prescription until he secures a permit from the Public Health Service, and after obtaining a permit to import the penicillin from the Italian Foreign Office (or appropriate department of government).

I talked with Col. Notestein, G-5, on this matter, and he suggested that I write you this note.

I have no personal interest in this matter, but I would greatly appreciate any assistance that you could render Dr. Riccio in getting the necessary permits.

Sincerely,

SARRATT T. HAMES
Lt Colonel, Infantry,
Commanding.

PM S/C. The necessary information has been secured and has been passed on to Dr. Riccio personally.

Dear

I refer to your letters of 25th Jan. and 2nd March wherein you asked what was the position concerning two Italians (namely SACCOMANI and VENERI) who had been sentenced to one year's imprisonment for illegal acquisition of petrol.

I regret the delay in replying to your letters but this has been unavoidable due to shortage of personnel and volume of work in Legal Sub Commission.

The cases against these men have been the subject of a recent review and I may inform you that the Minister of Grace and Pardon has been directed to release the prisoners as follows:

SACCOMANI, Attilio 22 July 46.

VENERI, Guglielmo 2 July 46.

We have reconsidered the cases and are giving each accused credit for time spent in jail awaiting trial, and earned credit for good behavior while serving sentence. According, the Minister of Grace and Pardon has been directed to release these prisoners as follows:

Dear Brigadier Carr,

I wrote to you on 26th January, 1946 about two Italian civilians, SACCONI Attilio and VENERI Giuliano, who had been sentenced by the Allied Military Court at Verona on 5th October, 1945, to one year's imprisonment. You replied to me by letter of 29th January, 1946 (Reference: D.O.1/26 B/CA.) You said that you would arrange for Legal Sub-Commission to examine the records.

I have been given to understand that the two men are still held in Carceri Giudiziarie at Verona and I have been asked whether there is any action in the way of appeal or representations that should be made by the relatives and friends of the two men.

I venture therefore to bring the case again to your notice in the hope you might be able to give me a lead as to the position so that I can deal appropriately with the enquiries I am receiving.

Dear Brigadier Carr,

This note relates to two Italian civilians, SACCOMANI Attilio and VENERI Guglielmo, who are at present undergoing a sentence of one year's imprisonment in Verona prison, for illegal acquisition of Allied petrol. They were sentenced by an Allied military court at Verona on 5th October, 1945, having been in custody for some time before their trial, and have therefore been about five months in prison.

The former Prime Minister, Bonomi, and Avv. Mutinelli, both vouch for the previous good character of these men, and ask for a revision of the sentence with a view to early release. The men in question operate a building construction firm, which is suffering owing to their absence, and this at a time when building construction is naturally of importance in the revival of Italian life. At the instance of Signor Mutinelli, who is known to me as a serious and reputable person, I am venturing to bring the case to your notice for consideration of revision of sentence, if possible.

Yours sincerely,

VERONA SUPERIOR COURT

Case of Veneri Guglielmo, Saccocciani Attilio, Saccocciani Baldassino.

Oct. 5. 45.

REASONS FOR JUDGEMENT

The defense raised in this case that the whole blame for the receipt of the petrol lies with the accused Veneri Guglielmo is not accepted by the Court. The accused Veneri and Saccocciani Attilio wish the court to believe that after having arranged for the receipt of the petrol the accused Saccocciani Attilio decided not to buy it and that the petrol was received and paid for by Veneri Guglielmo contrary to Saccocciani Attilio's instructions. The only evidence in support of this allegation is the sworn testimony of Veneri Guglielmo and Saccocciani Attilio. It is in the interest of these two accused to persuade the Court to believe this story as if accepted it would in the opinion of the Court virtually exonerate Saccocciani Attilio from blame for the actual receipt of the petrol; and his early release from prison would assist the work of the firm in which he and the accused Veneri are jointly interested. The Court does not accept it for the following reasons, Saccocciani Attilio shewed no hesitation in making the original arrangement to purchase the petrol. In fact he appears to have made it within a few days of the last receipt of petrol from legitimate sources (see evidence of Veneri). He himself shewed the soldier the premises. Saccocciani Attilio stated that he told his son in law not to buy the petrol and then went to Trento and after that to Adova. He was however in Verona on the morning of the seventeenth of August (see evidence of Cassadoro Evelino). Further it seems most improbable that Veneri Guglielmo should have considered that he was entitled to disobey, without any warning to his father in law, who was the principal in the firm, instructions on such an important point - instructions which the father in law asks the Court to believe he had no reason to think would not be obeyed by his son in law. Further the Court can place no reliance on the evidence of Cassadoro Evelino and takes judicial notice of the fact that

Further the Court can place no reliance on the evidence of Cassadoro Evelino and takes judicial notice of the fact that the Zone H.Q. of the Italian Air Force in Padova is in Corso Umberto, Padova, and is not in the neighbourhood of the Station. There is in fact no Air Force H.Q. near Padova Station. Cassadoro Evelino gave his evidence in an unconvincing manner, and the Court disregards his evidence as being unreliable. Furthermore if Saccocciani Attilio had given orders to Veneri Guglielmo not to buy the petrol he had the opportunity of informing the Carabinieri of this on Aug. 17th after returning from Padova. Instead he made no effort to communicate with the Carabinieri. Moreover in his statement made on 16 August

Veneri Guglielmo says nothing about buying petrol contrary to his father in law's instructions. Instead he speaks of an arrangement having been come to between himself and his father-in-law to buy petrol. The Court notes that according to the evidence of Saccocciani Attilio he had seen Veneri Guglielmo at Isola della Scala after his arrest; and before Veneri made his statement. It is to be imagined that he would have requested Veneri to say that he had bought the petrol contrary to instructions. No suggestion was made on behalf of Saccocciani Attilio that Veneri's statement was not true. Furthermore in his statement taken on 29 September 1945 Saccocciani Attilio did not say that he had given his son-in-law orders not to buy the petrol. In these circumstances the Court has come to the conclusion that such orders were never given, and that the evidence given by the accused Saccocciani Attilio and Veneri Guglielmo that these orders had been given was given to mislead the Court.

The Court considers that there is evidence to show that Saccocciani Baldino was aware that he was helping to unload stolen petrol, but considers that there is no evidence to show he was more than a mere porter.

With regard to the plea in mitigation that the accused were engaged on work of a public nature, the Court points out that they were also working for their private profit and were getting an illegal advantage over their competitors. The Court takes into consideration the previous good character of the accused. They were however extremely willing purchasers of the petrol.

Dear

I have received your letter of the 25th January 1946 on the subject of the two Italian civilians who are undergoing sentence.

I have passed your letter to the Legal Sub-Commission and asked them to investigate the matter. I will let you have a report on the result of our review of the case but this may take a little time as, being a case with a sentence of under two years, we have no record of it. I am unaware at the moment whether the relevant records have yet arrived from the Region concerned.

Dear

See 16A.

Reference your D/O Letter of 20 October 45 on the subject of Electoral Rolls in Bolzano Province.

1. I feel that the fact that the Prefect has "other views" is no excuse for his not doing what he is told and that he should "interpret" the situation in accordance with your directions. If he is definitely obstructive you will no doubt consider replacing him. I understand that this rather delicate matter is a possibility under consideration.

2. It is not considered desirable to publish the Allies' "views". This is but to invite argument and, as has been said, our views as to what the law is are not decisive. There is not the same objection to the publication of a brief resume of any directions given by you to the Prefect as to the lines on which the Lists will be completed if you think that will allay public opinion, namely that German-speaking Italians who opted for Germany but who have taken no other step to acquire German nationality will be included in the Electoral Lists. If you wish it, I can see no objection to the contents of Paras 3, 4 and 5 of AC/45/12/LG of 15 Oct 45 (except the last sentence of Para 5) being communicated orally to a selected meeting of officials concerned.

3. Our opinion is that the preparation of the Electoral Rolls should be carried out in accordance with what we believe the Italian law to be - it is not a nominal roll of the adult population or a census and it should include all Italians and Tyroleans who we believe to be qualified. AC's official views as to that belief have been communicated to you and should be followed.

4. If the Special Commission later finds that facts do not justify the inclusion of persons in the draft Electoral Lists, their names can be struck out but that eventuality is no excuse for the Prefect delaying preparation of the List.

Dear Brigadier,

15A

Your D.O. 1/20/B/CA of 8 October was handed by Colonel Thomas to the Regional Legal Officer for report but he had left the Region before the report was available.

The youth was in fact tried before the Special Assize Court at Casale Monferrato and sent to a reformatory for three years. His being "assolto" and still sent to the reformatory is of course in accordance with Italian Criminal Procedure.

It appears that there is no reformatory proper in Piemonte and that the Procuratore instead of communicating with the Procuratore Generale as he should have done, upon which the attention of A.M.G. would have been drawn to the case, wrote to the Italian Ministry and has so far received no instructions.

However, meantime the youth has been transferred to the Casa di Rieducazione in Torino pending the Ministry's further wishes being expressed.

My Dear Dunlop

Reference your XXII/025.111 of 9 October 1945.

I think the view here is that there is little doubt that the Prefect has got wrong ideas as to the law, but the Legal Sub-Commission, even though it may feel that his view is probably based on a misunderstanding of certain documents, cannot commit itself to a categorical statement to that effect because it has not seen the documents in question.

The ordinary way of considering a matter when there is an ambiguity or dispute is to look to the intention of the parties at the time and the Italian Courts have the same practice as the English Courts in this respect. Our view of such intention is not binding on the Italian Courts but it does afford some indication of what the result may be.

In this case it was necessary first to find out who wished to move; this was done by persons opting. This option was not final and exclusive because these documents then had to be accepted by the Germans. Lastly, the migration was to be gradual. It is not believed that it was the intention of either party to create a body of German nationals who would continue to reside in Italy for quite indefinite periods as aliens. If they had been turned into aliens, Italian law would require them to be registered as aliens and to carry identity papers and this is not required. I don't think that there is a shadow of doubt that it was not the intention that the signing of the option would affect an immediate change of nationality.

While neither we nor any "ruling" can decide what the Italian Law is (that is for the Courts to say) it is proper that we should follow what we believe to be the law.

In this case we believe that opting was not intended to and did not alter nationality. It was to be followed by an act, namely a bodily transfer. Therefore, those who opted are not in any "natural" position but are still Italian citizens (they were, for instance, liable to conscription to the Italian Forces) and no declaration by them is necessary for them to regain their Italian citizenship. The Tyrolier who looks upon such a suggestion with suspicion seems to have every reason for his views.

The Italian Commission should have no discretion. It has to look at the facts only and then state the result of those facts under the existing Italian law.

Any statement of the intentions of the Italian Government towards the Alto Adige would probably deal with such matters as autonomy, languages, education, etc. There has never been any suggestion that it proposes to pass a law affecting nationality. In fact, it would be impracticable for it to do so as it cannot confer German nationality by an Italian law. Change of nationality is obviously a matter for the Peace Treaty and cannot be achieved by any unilateral action. A statement as to the Italian Government's intention would therefore appear to be quite irrelevant to the question of nationality.

The Chief Commissioner's letter to the Prime Minister of 20th August stated quite clearly that our view was that the Special Commission should be confined only to examining and establishing the facts of citizenship based on the existing Italian law.

Sincerely

Dear

As you will imagine, I receive many personal appeals in my office regarding individuals who consider that they are not receiving equitable or just treatment. In the majority of cases I take no action on these appeals because they are matters entirely for the Italian Government.

I did, however, promise the person who sent the enclosed document to me, that I would forward it to the AMG authorities for consideration. I am not suggesting that it is a case in which we should take any action. The case appears to have been properly tried by the Italian courts and is one for the Italian authorities, but it does seem wrong that a youth of 15 or 16 should be left in prison after he has been acquitted and given three years in a correction school.

Unless there is anything to report later on this matter, there is no need to answer this letter as I informed the individual concerned that all I could do would be to forward the representation to the AMG authorities for their consideration.

Yours

AFFETT. COMANDO ALBERTO

da

A.A.S.S.A.I. D.R.P.A.

La sottoscritta Giovanna Spelt ved. Ruo Bernocchio si rivolge a questo Sist. Comando riportando il suo pernissimo caso per cui sollecita interessamento e considerazione.

La scrivente ha un figlio minorenne, Ruo Bernocchio Gianfranco nato nell' anno 1930, detentore da circa 6 mesi, e che attualmente trovasi nel carcere di Alessandria. Il ragazzo era reo di furto inciso, senza il consenso esterno alle "brigate rosse".

Il 6 agosto u.s. dopo essere stato regolarmente processato a Camilo
Maffei, dal Tribunale del Popolo, venne annullato, ma gli furono assegnati 3 anni di correzione.

Per un errore delle autorità giudicanti il ragazzo fu tranciato al carcere di Alessandria con altri processati che avevano poco vario da soffrire nei confini, ed egli trovarsi ancora dopo 2 mesi dall'assoluzione.

La scrivente prega codesto Sist. Comando di voler risolvere questo deplorabile equivoco, che puo, altresia recar danno mortale al ragazzo che vive da tempo a contatto con veri delinquenti, succere alla sua salute già alquanto precaria.

La scrivente prega inoltre, che le venga concesso, con decreto di questo Sist. Comando, di mettere il ragazzo in un collegio civile a proprie spese.

In attesa di un benevolo e favorevole intervento da parte di questo
Comando, saluta e ringraziata.

Dear

With reference to your D/O Letter of 21 September 45 on the subject of Epuration of the Catholic University, Milan. I sent you a telegram on 29 September, informing you that the instructions contained in this Headquarters letter ED/7K/5.2/AO of 17 September 45, held good.

I discussed the matter personally with the representative from the Vatican on September 28th and 29th when your alternative proposal was put to him. The Vatican authorities wish the decisions already taken to stand and this was not because they were insisting on our carrying out our agreement but because the complications outlined in your letter had already been taken into consideration.

Will you please see, therefore, that the earliest possible effect is given to the instructions contained in our letter of 17th September 45 referred to above.

Yours sincerely

M.C.

Colonel A.N. HANCOCK, O.B.E.,
Regional Commissioner,
LOMBARDIA Region.

My dear

With reference to your D.O. letter of 10 September 1945 on the subject of a central concentration camp for political prisoners.

I was sorry I could not discuss this with you personally but in my case I should not have been able to take a decision before returning to this Headquarters.

This Headquarters has decided to take no further action as regards an alternative to the Modena proposal and I have told Public Safety Sub-Commission to inform the Regional Commissioners accordingly by wire and to follow up our telegram with a letter.

I have some doubts as to whether, in existing circumstances, we were ever right in giving consideration to a central concentration camp for these political prisoners. Even if we had been successful in obtaining the Modena Camp before it was dismantled we should have taken it over with just the bare tentage and I doubt whether the Italian authorities could have produced the necessary accommodation stores for 30,000 odd prisoners, especially in the face of winter.

We have the offer of one alternative to Modena but in this case the Allied authorities could only provide the tentage which would have to be re-erected and this tentage could only be on loan until December 31st. Under the circumstances the Italian authorities could not, naturally, consider the proposal.

I regret, therefore, that we have had to ask Regional Commissioners to make the best arrangements they can locally. It seems to me that in the face of winter some form of accommodation in a building is really necessary but if local circumstances demand that political prisoners must be kept in a concentration camp it will be easier to deal with them, although not, perhaps, so economical, if they are handled on a city or provincial basis.

If we can assist in any way please let me know

Yours

M

My dear Carr.

One of the matters which I wished to talk over with you was the old question of a concentration camp for political prisoners. I have sent a telegram to your office to this effect but I do ask you to be good enough to interest yourself personally in the case. If you are not able to arrange officially some camp in substitution for the Mcdons proposal, then I think that we must make plans locally and as these will take some little while, I should like to have early notice of your decision at Headquarters.

Yours ever

Dear

Mather

May I refer Do to your AC/14125/2S dated 6 Sep 45?

We are proposing to pursue two offenders with the utmost rigour of the law. Lucifer however now rings up and says he doesn't want to get any body into trouble! I am sick and tired of the heartless estate. I only wish half as much trouble were taken over things that do matter as is expended on preserving the sanctity of the estate against really quite petty trespass. However, though the trespass does not worry me, disobedience of orders does.

I note that one cat, AC HQ No.28, which had taken some people on 26 August on to the hotel ground, was protected by having a duty pass issued for the purpose of Malaria Control. I should suggest that its fortunate possessor should refrain from using it in the Royal Estate on Sunday afternoons lest others less fortunate should at in this particular occasion seek to follow it in.

Dear

I have received your C/14/38 of the 7th September 1945.

Captain [redacted] of the Monuments, Fine Arts and Archives Sub-Commission will be visiting Naples in the near future with a view to giving every assistance possible in effecting the release of the San Martino Museum.

The letter has also been taken up with MIA and they have written to the Ministry of War requesting them, if possible, to release the museum.

I cannot think of any further action which can be taken at this stage except to suggest that the Committee which you referred to in your letter might be informed of the situation as regards the San Martino museum so that, in the event of suitable alternative accommodation being noted for de-requisition, the Italian military authorities could be informed. This proposal may, however, already be covered if your Headquarters is represented on the Committee.

I suggest that we should return to correspondence on an official basis in regard to this matter. I only wrote to you semi-officially recently because our file on this subject at this Headquarters was getting somewhat out of hand.

Yours

L'ALTO COMMISSARIO
PER LA SICILIA

Al Generale CAPP.
presso la Commissione Alleanza
S. M. A.

Memoria di quanto la S.V. ha fatto per la Sicilia mi permette rivelarle ancora una volta:

E' a Lei nota la situazione dei lavoratori siciliani per quanto riguarda il Vastiglio e le difficoltà di rendere personalmente conto durante la Sua per-manenza nell'Italia.

Spostati dai maltrattamenti e dalle vessazioni della massa, dalle insistenze dei partiti politici e dei Comitati di Liberazione, sono venuti nella scarsissima di forze lavorarie in Val di Susa, per conto di questo Alto Com-missariato, le tessere di cotone rosso (1.4000 lire) e dalle precedenti campagne per distribuirle poi a vantaggio ai lavoratori e mestri nodini.

Vicendo nell'Italia Settentrionale di blocco sui tessuti, ho chiesto al Capo della Commissione Alleanza, con Decreto n° 11437 del 5/9/45, l'autorizzazione per il
Libero trasporto dei tessuti in Sicilia.

In preda quindi di interroverà i Suoi Molti uffici perché tale autorizzazione mi venne data.

Sicuro del Suo autorevole interessamento, ho ringraziato moltissimo anche a nome dei Siciliani e prego di gradire i miei più distinti saluti.
