The Minister of the Royal Household

Rome, 22 February 1945

Dear Admiral,

I hope you will forgive my taking up your time for a question which is of immediate interest for the Administration I am entrusted with.

During the period of enemy occupation, the Commissioner of the so-called republican Government to the Royal Administration gave us a temporary loan to the Interior Department the furniture, linen, etc which are on the enclosed list. All this was transferred to Villa Pallavicini-Rospigliosi, n. 8 Via di Porta Latina for the use of the German officers who lived there.

After the liberation of Rome, the said material remained in the Villa Pallavicini-Rospigliosi, and is still there, for we heard from the agent of the Pallavicini family that the Allied officers who were housed in the villa didn't have to make use of it.

At present, we greatly need the said material for the services which have to be fulfilled because of the presence of the Chief of State in the Royal Palace of the Quirinal, in the person of H.M.S. the Lieutenant General of the Kingdom, and because of the arrival of their Royal Highnesses the Princess of Piemonte and her children which is shortly to take place. I therefore take the liberty of asking you to see whether it would be possible to allow this material to be given back to the Royal Administration.

Thanking you for whatever you will deem it fit to do, I remain, my dear Admiral,

Very truly yours,

S. Luifaro
(Minister of the Royal Household)
