Reference your letter TRG/27/8 of the 10th. July, herewith details requested.

- (1) One course only, consisting of 11 Officers and 12 N.C.O.s of the 8th. Infantry Regt. was held at the C.A.R. Orvieto from 13th. to 26th. May.
- (2) This action was prompted by the knowledge that British Small Arms are to be issued to this Regiment and was carried out with the full knowledge of the General Commanding at the request of the Colonel of the Regiment.
The B.L.U. was also informed and no objection was raised by us.
- (3) It is pointed out by the Territorial Command that these Officers and N.C.O.s did not receive separate instruction at the C.A.R. but joined in the Weapon Training being given to the recruits; nor was normal training interfered with in any way.

REPORT ON VISIT TO No. 8 C.A.R. (ORVLETO)
BY GSO II (SCHOOLS) ON 8/9 APRIL 1946

GENERAL

1. The call-up was successful. Training commenced according to schedule. This C.A.R. is very good in all respects. Great keenness is shown by the Commandant and his staff and this is having an obviously good effect on the recruits.

ACCOMMODATION

2. Large airy barracks in very good condition. No space is wasted and although rooms appear to be over-crowded this is offset by the height of rooms and large window arrangements. Plenty of fresh air. Suggested recruits slept "head to foot". Kitchens are first class and generally speaking the messing was good. Work is still in progress on dining-halls - at present only 75% can sit down at one time. NCOs mess is excellent - much higher standard than in some British barracks.

HYGIENE

3. Ablutions and bath arrangements are first class. Latrines are still a bit smelly but disinfectant is applied liberally. A considerable amount of money was spent on acid to clean out urinals and "squat" latrines. ^{some} The problem of laundry is a ~~sear~~ point with the Commandant. In one of the barracks there is a complete modern laundry in excellent condition. Ministry of War have apparently refused to grant a sum of money to staff and run this. Instead they suggest a local contact. Commandant feels that one method is just as expensive as the other and considers his idea much more suitable. I agree with him.

TRAINING

4. The programme is adhered to and recruits are extremely smart in drill and turn-out. The standard of instruction is average although some of the junior NCOs are definitely bad. When taking squads in drill the instructor is inclined to dance about and move round with squad. When I told one sergeant to stand still and control the squad by voice alone he was quite lost after 30 secs with the squad gradually disappearing out of sight. Instruction on weapons was good. I called out one recruit from a squad to repeat a lesson on the Bren. He was much better than the instructor. It later transpired that he had 4 years previous service and had fought in the desert. I pointed out to the Commandant that this recruit and several others like him might well be used to assist during the temporary shortage of instructors. He agreed. P.T. arrangements were excellent as the C.A.R. had full use of the gymnasium used before the war as the Ladies Physical Training Academy. There is also an excellent swimming pool. Preparation for the tactical training are well in hand and ranges are nearing completion.

5. An excellent training centre in all respects. I recommend that all C.A.R. Commanders visit this one and develop their own on similar lines.
