2. MILITARY COURTESY AND DISCIPLINE:

The following is extracted from MTOUSA letter AG 420/918 CG-O, Subject: Military Courtesy and Discipline", dated 29 November 1945:

"There is a marked laxity on the part of U.S. officers and enlisted personnel throughout MTOUSA in observing the basic principles of military courtesy and discipline. Saluting is far from the standards prescribed, and discrepancies range from careless and improper execution to complete failure to render the salute. Improper wearing of the uniform is common. Unbuttoned jackets, wearing of torn and dirty articles of uniform, improper wearing of or failure to wear the proper headgear, dirty and tarnished insignia, unpolished boots and shoes, and unbuttoned pockets are frequently observed offences.

"Such derelictions are inexusable and are a reflection upon the Army of the United States. The appearance and behaviour of our officers and enlisted men in foreign lands make an impression upon the inhabitants by which they will judge our nation. Vigorous action will immediately be taken to correct present conditions, and the proper standards of military courtesy and discipline will be maintained. Laxity will not be tolerated. (Est Sec)

3. REDUCTION IN LONG DISTANCE TRAFFIC:

It is imperative that use of the military long distance telephone lines be curtailed. Reduction of personnel and in the number of available military circuits requires a great reduction in traffic. Long distance telephone calls therefore must be kept to a minimum limited to only those calls which are absolutely necessary. Military circuits are monitored to detect and report unnecessary calls and calls of a purely personal nature. Compliance with the above is necessary to permit satisfactory service on the military circuits. (Sig Sec)

4. REDUCTION IN LONG DISTANCE TRAFFIC: It is imperative that use of the military long distance telephone lines be curtailed. Reduction of personnel and in the number of available circuits requires a great reduction in traffic. Long distance telephone calls therefore must be kept to a minimum limited to only those calls which are absolutely necessary. Military circuits are monitored to detected and report unnecessary calls and calls of a purely personal nature. Compliance with the above is necessary to permit satisfactory service on the military circuits. (Sig Sec)

All such messages which are challenged by the scrutineers will be recorded and bad cases will be referred to heads of departments for necessary action. A GREAT AMERICAN

General of the Army George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, has relinquished the post of trust and responsibility which the American nation confided to him more than six years ago.

The United States during those six years, experienced momentous events; faced perils as grave as any in its history; and by the united efforts of its people emerged victorious.

The extent of those perils, the margin by which they were surmounted, the wisdom of vital decisions reached during those days, and their future influence on the destiny of the American people are yet to be evaluated.

Neither can we yet measure the full stature of the men to whom America entrusted the direction of its affairs during these critical years. But in the small group which has comprised our collective leadership, the great eminence of General Marshall is conspicuous.

Upon the occasion of his own retirement from a varied public service unsurpassed in our history, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson with a simple and generous subordination of self found only in the truly great, said of General Marshall:

"I cannot leave the War Department without giving some account, more personal than official, of my association with the Chief of Staff, General Marshall, during the five years we have worked together. Our day-to-day, a;most hour-to-hour consideration of plans and policies on which the safety of the Nation depended has given me an unparalleled opportunity to measure the stature of this great and modest man.

In spite of the great prestige which General Marshall justly holds among his countrymen, I doubt that many fully realize how his leadership has counted. I know, because we could talk freely of it in private, how clearly he saw the inevitable involvement of this nation in the war and tried by every means at his disposal to prepare us for it.

A man in high office cannot always make public the things that are in his heart. Yet in his Biennial Report in July 1941, General Marshall uttered as strong a warning to the Nation as he appropriately could. His recommendation that the Selective Service men, the National Guardsmen and Reserve officers taken into the Army for a year of service be retained beyond that period touched small group which has comprised our collective leadership, the great eminence of General Marshall is conspicuous.

Upon the occasion of his own retirement from a varied public service unsurpassed in our history, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson with a simple and generous subordination of self found only in the truly great, said of General Marshall:

"I cannot leave the War Department without giving some account, more personal than official, of my association with the Chief of Staff, General Marshall, during the five years we have worked together. Our day-to-day, a;most hour-to-hour consideration of plans and policies on which the safety of the Nation depended has given me an unparalleled opportunity to measure the stature of this great and modest man.

In spite of the great prestige which General Marshall justly holds among his countrymen, I doubt that many fully realize how his leadership has counted. I know, because we could talk freely of it in private, how clearly he saw the inevitable involvement of this nation in the war and tried by every means at his disposal to prepare us for it.

A man in high office cannot always make public the things that are in his heart. Yet in his Biennial Report in July 1941, General Marshall uttered as strong a warning to the Nation as he appropriately could. His recommendation 87 that the Selective Service men, the National Guardsmen and Reserve officers taken into the Army for a year of service be retained beyond that period touched off a violent debate in the Congress. General Marshall fought to make clear the pressing need to hold these men in the service. To release them would have destroyed the Army which later we required so urgently. He won his battle by a single vote in the House of Representatives.

When Japan attacked, General Marshall's visions was displayed in the global view which he immediately took of our situation. From the beginning his concept of proper strategy was that we must defeat Germany first in order to gain victory in the shortest possible time. In spite of the far distance between the European and Pacific theaters of war, he saw them as separate battlefields of a single conflict. The major, the more menacing force, was Germany. How sound that strategy proved was shown when the Japanese collapsed four months after the German surrender.

From the very beginning, he insisted on unity between the services and among our Allies. H e realized that only by this means could our combined resources be employed to the fullest advantage against the enemy. To achieve whole-hearted cooperation, he was always willing to sacrifice his own personal prestige. To him agreement was more important than any consideration of where the credit belonged. His firm belief that unity could be preserved in the face of divergent opinions was a decisive factor in planning throughout the war.

In all the military councils, General Marshall's leadership constantly pressed for adoption of the most direct means of defeating Germany. From the outset, he held to the plan that this must be accomplished by a cross-Channel invasion of Northern France. Other plans were proposed and considered. Marshall never swerved from his bold insistence of a frontal attack on the coast which would bring us quickly into contact with the mass of Germany's military forces on terrain favorable for their defeat.

There have been times when General Marshall's swift decisions have averted possible disaster. In the summer of 1942 when in a single battle Field Marshal Rommel has destroyed a large proportion of Britain's tanks in Lybia, General Marshall unhesitatingly stipped our training forces of medium tanks and shipped them to Egypt as the only means of meeting this crisis. One of our armored divisions was at that time in a port of embarkation, ready to sail for further training in North Ireland. That division, too, was divested of its armor and its shipment delayed until the tanks could be replaced. But the important thing was that Rommel had been stopped. The dangerous crisis was met. We know now that Marshall's estimate of this situation was correct. We know that Hitler intended to break through Egypt to the Near East. Had he succeded, the entire course of the war would have been changed.

The man has a sure approach to every problem he studies. When we were determining the number of units of all sorts which would be rgquired for victory, the combat divisions were fixed at an even hundred. General Marshall questioned that estimate. After going over our planned operations for all theaters and the timetable of the war, he decided that 90 divisions should be sufficient, and in the end that figure was cut to 89. How accurate was his judgement can be gauged by the fact that at the close of the war, all but two of those 89 divions had been committed to action in the field.

General Marshall's leadership takes its authority from his great strength of character. I have never known a man who seemed so surely to breathe the democratic American spirit. He is a soldier, and yet he has a profound distaste for anything that savors of militarism. He believes that every able-bodied citizen has a personal responsibility for the Nation's security and should be prepared to assume that responsibility whenever an emergency arises. But he is opposed to a large standing Army as un-American.

His trust in his commanders is almost legendary. During the critical period of the Ardennes breakthrough no messages went from the War Department to General Eisenhower which could require his personal decision and reply. This is standard practice with General Marshall. When one of his commanders is in a tight spot, he does everything possible to back him up. But he leaves the man free to accomplish his purpose unhampered.

He is likewise the most g e n e r o u s of men, keeping himself in the background so that his subordinates may receive all credit for duties well done.

His c o u r t s e y and c o n s i d e r a t i o n for his associates, of whatever rank, are remarked by all who know him. His d e v o t i o n to the

His d e v o t i o n to the nation he serves as a vital quality which infuses everything he does. During the course of a long lifetime, much of it spent in positions of public trust, I have had considerable experience with men in Government. General Marshall has given me a new gauge of what such service should be. The destiny of America at the most critical time of its national existence has been in the hands of a great and good citizen. Let no man forget it."

The thoughtful attention of every American in this Theater should be directed not only to General Marshall's achievements, great as these have been, but much more to these traits of character by which alone has it been possible for one individual to rise to the heights he has attained.

A careful reading of the tribute of Secretary Stimson, himself a great American, to General Marshall will bring out into clear relief such words and phrases as "personal responsibility", "devotion to the nation", "strength of character", "the democratic American spirit", "courtsey and consideration of his associates", "trust in his commanders", and a"keeping of self in the background in order that deserving subordinates might receive their proper credit".

These are the manifestations of American character at its best. They provide reassuring faith that the unshakable character by which, through God, Washington and others were enabled to build our nation, have grown in strength on American soil through the intervening years.

Declassified E.O. 12356 Section 3.3/NND No. 785015

Every American in this Theater, and particularly every member of the United States Army in this Theater, can find inspiration in the integrity, vision and courage of this great American soldier.

5. THEATER ADMISSION:

Through mutual agreement by British and American Welfare and Special Service agencies, a certain number of seats in the American Red Cross theaters have been held available for British personnel, and in British theaters American troops have been admitted under no restrictions. In the theaters of both services no civilian guests of soldiers have been permitted.

Under a recent policy by the British Army two changes have been made: first, each soldier, British or American, is permitted to bring with him one civilian guest and, second, all admittances to British theaters will be, effective 1 January 1946, by paid admission. No change in this regard has been made in the American theaters.

Therefore, admissions to American theaters will be continued on the same basis as in the past. American military personnel attending British theaters will do so on exactly the same basis as the British soldiers.

The policy of British Welfare changing from free entrance to an admission by charge of course applies to all British theaters throughout the British Army in all theaters. (RAC)

Such personnel will be retained regardless of any eligibility for return to the United States or transfer to another theater of operations.

2. ELECTRICAL ACCESSORIES, BULBS, MAINTENANCE:
It is becoming impossible to comply with the ever-increasing demands for bulbs, electrical accessories, and requests for services of an electrician. During this month, up to and including November 19th, there have been 331 written requests for an electrician's services. This does not include oral requests. These requests involved the replacement or supplying of 177 bulbs and 62 fuses. There have also been literally hundreds of requests for desk lamps, although 235 of them were supplied last year, and uncounted requests for the repair or installation of electric heaters, although the use of electric heaters in the building is prohibited.

The result of this increase in lighting fixtures and electrical appliances is a terrific burden on the already over-burdened power plant. As a consequence we have burned-out bulbs and fuses, and the power plant which should deliver 120-130 volts is barely able to produce 110 volts.

The main difficulty seems to be that the occupants of the building expect the same standards of lighting, heating and comforts that they were accustomed to in office buildings back home. Unfortunately neither the buildings nor the installations here are up to USA and British standards, and because of the physical limitations of the existing plant and unavailability of supplies (which must now come for the most part from civilian sources), we should not expect the same lighting, heating, and comforts which we were accustomed to back home.

Occupants are urged, therefore to consider the above factors before making any requests, and above all to comply with the following existing regulations:

1. No heaters or electric stoves will be used without permission of the requests for services of an electrician. During [illegible] November 19th, there have been 331 written requests for an electrician's services. This does not include oral requests. These requests involved the replacement or supplying of 177 bulbs and 62 fuses. There have also been literally hundreds of requests for desk lamps, although 235 of them were supplied last year, and uncounted requests for the repair or installation of electric heaters, although the use of electric heaters in the building is prohibited.

2. Hereafter no light bulbs will be furnished unless a burned-out bulb is turned in.

3. All requests for services or supplies will be made in every case (except in extreme emergencies) thru the Administrative Officer of the Sub-Section concerned, who will satisfy himself that the request is a necessary one before forwarding same to this office. (Rq Comdt Sec)

3. SIGNAL - THEFT OF TELEPHONES:

Numerous telephones have been stolen from offices in this building within the past few weeks. The majority of the instruments were removed during the lunch hour. To assist in preventing the theft of instruments it is recommended that either a system of charge of quarters be established, or offices be locked, as these are the only ways in which these thefts can be stopped. It is requested that when telephones are missing, the Signal Office, Extension 229, be immediately notified. It is also requested that any officer, noticing anyone carrying a telephone, stop such a person and demand his card (specifying that the bearer is an official installer) as the only personnel allowed officially to handle a telephone in this building possess such a card. Cooperation of all concerned is requested. (Sig O)

ROME - MILAN TELEPHONE SERVICE: A traffic check made on the private telephone wire between this Headquarters and AMG/AC HQs in Milan discloses the fact that the present use of this circuit does not warrant its continuance. For each of three days checked the total number of calls in both directions did not exceed 27 and the maximum total conversation time for any one day was only 149 minutes.

It is urged that more use be made of this private wire in preference to using Rome Long Distance, as otherwise the circuit is liable to be discontinued and put into the Military common user pool.

3. EXTENSION OF INVITATIONS TO FOREIGN MILITARY PERSONNEL TO VISIT THE UNITED STATES:
The following is extracted from Letter, War Department, the Adjutant General's Office, file AG 210.482(16 Oct 45) OB-S-B-M, dated 31 October 1945, for the information and guidance of all concerned:

"In recent months, particularly since the end of the war, considerable embarrassment has resulted from the extension of invitations, implied and actual, to foreign military personnel to visit the United States. Invariably such invitations cause confusion within the War Department because it is difficult to ascertain whether the invitation results from a request on the part of the foreign national concerned or is the idea of the United States official and is substantiated by valid reasons. All such invitational visits entail the expenditure of War Department funds (which frequently require approval of the Secretary of War) and necessitate concurrences from numerous War Department agencies.

"No commitments regarding invitational visits to the United States will be made to foreign military personnel without the express approval of the War Department. 8. ITALIAN CIVILIAN PASSES TO HEADQUARTERS ALLIED COMMISSION:

On October 30th there were 1570 Italian civilians employed by A.C.; at the same date 2500 civilian passes were in circulation, a difference of 730 cards.

The connection between the pilfering of articles from offices in the A.C. Building, and a floating supply of passes to enter Headquarters cannot be overlooked, and there are many other obvious abuses of the cards possible.

The responsability for withdrawing passes from civilian employees leaving the service of AC Hq, lies with the Section or Sub-Commission for wich they worked.

A copy of Civ. Pers. Form 7 advising the termination of employment to G-1 Civilian Personnel, should be always sent to Internal Security by the Section or Sub-Commission concerned, and the pass attached to the form for cancellation. (Hq Comdt)

9. DISPATCH OF OFFICIAL MAIL:

Paragraph 6, Daily Bulletin #282, dated 11 October 1945, is cancelled.

All official mail for despatch from this Headquarters, with undermentioned exceptions, must be delivered to M/Centre (Dispatch Office) before 1500 hours each day.

The exceptions are AFHQ, AMG Naples Commune and local deliveries, which are made by AC motor Courier and Dispatch Riders. (Office of Ex Comm)

10. LOSS OF OLIVETTI TYPEWRITER - MODEL 40 No. 257780:

The above typewriter has been lost, and all Sub-Commissions and Sections will carefully check machines in their care.

Any one having knowledge of the location of the above-machine will report same to Security Officer, Room 1, Ground Floor, Hq A.C. Building. (Hq Comdt)

3. ISSUE OF OFFICERS' PAY AND ALLOWANCES (BRITISH):

1. The following details regarding the procedure for the issue of pay and allowances to officers serving in this command are published for information and as a guide for officers when making enquiries on their pay and/or allowance, in accordance with GRO 1129/45.

2. Ordinary pay may be issued, according to the officer's individual choice, by either:-

(a) The Officer i/c Army Pay Office (Officers' Accounts), Stockport Road, Manchester, 13; or

(b) The Army Agents, viz:-

(i) Lloyds Bank Ltd (Cox's and King's Branch) Avon Court, Bournemouth.

(ii) Glyn Mills & Co. (Holts Branch). Kirkland House, Whitehall, LONDON, SW1.

NOTE - Certain Regiments and Corps deal only with one Agent. The Regimental Agents for each Regiment or Corps are shown in the Quarterly Army List.

Whichever of the above departments issues an officer's pay also issues Engineer, Corps or Signal pay and Staff Pay, if these are admissible. These extra elements of pay are issued automatically and therefore do not require any form of application to be submitted by the officer. In the case of Staff Pay, the issue is commenced from the particulars promulgated in the list of Staff Appointments in the Appendix to General Routine Orders. War Service Increments are also issued by the department responsible for the issue of the officer's ordinary pay.

3. Outfit allowance and all questions on Income Tax are dealt with the Agent or Paymaster who issues the officer's ordinary pay.

The issue will then be continued by the Army Pay Office, Manchester, without further claims until a further casualty is reported on AF W3010A showing cessation of entitlement. To prevent overissues and avoid possible hardship to the individual officer it is important that all casualties affecting the issues of Command, Additional, Pay, etc particularly cessation of entitlement, be reported on AF W3010A to GHQ 2nd Echelon, as and when they occur. Casualty Returns, AFs W3010A, etc, are not required by Paymasters.
