It now appears likely that the Italian Government will sign the peace treaty on 10 February 1947. However, there are many political factions and individuals throughout Italy who feel strongly that it should not be signed and others who will exploit unrest of any origin to their own advantage. Consequently it is of the utmost importance, particularly over the next few days, for Allied soldiers to avoid being drawn into provoking incidents. You are requested to issue urgent instructions to all troops under your command to refrain from any comment whatsoever on the peace treaty, to avoid political rings and to be particularly cautious in their driving.

Subject is billing Italian Government for supplies to the Italian

In view of fact that supplies to Italian Armed Forces will presumably cease on E Day, it now does not seem worth while to hand over accounting responsibilities to protecting armies at this stage.
