SUBJECT: Camouflaged Explosives.

TO : See Distribution.

The following information on camouflaged explosive devices has been received from the Western Front is forwarded for attention of JCS/WH.

- (1) A PROLET is a camouflaged explosive device for sabotage activities. It has a curved lens, the length is 112 cm and the diameter is 5 cm. A cavity in the stick for insertion of a fuse is located. (Ref 125: 125) Publication 125 (10 B) was revealed that the device was called a P. The stick is of normal wood coloring of very hard consistency and the means of identification is to show a small index, light with a notch. When this is done I OMA will burn quickly.

- (2) A walking stick composed of a stick of I OMA was also recovered. Including the curved lens, the length is 112 cm and the diameter is 5 cm. A cavity in the stick for insertion of a fuse is located. (Ref 125: 125) Publication 125 (10 B) was revealed that the device was called a P. The stick is of normal wood coloring of very hard consistency and the means of identification is to show a small index, light with a notch. When this is done I OMA will burn quickly.

- (3) A PROLET is a camouflaged explosive device for sabotage activities. It has a curved lens, the length is 112 cm and the diameter is 5 cm. A cavity in the stick for insertion of a fuse is located. (Ref 125: 125) Publication 125 (10 B) was revealed that the device was called a P. The stick is of normal wood coloring of very hard consistency and the means of identification is to show a small index, light with a notch. When this is done I OMA will burn quickly.

A PROLET camera was found by an officer in the 3rd G, Germany. Although not known when found, it is a type designed to be used by a soldier. The lens is 112 cm and the lens is 5 cm. The body of the camera conceals the explosive which is inserted after unscrewing the lens. It should be noted that the camera did not have a serial number, whereas a real camera. The camera is sensitive to all appearances but may prove fatal to the soldier's health.

SUBJECT: Dooby-trap in Sabotage Equipment.

TO : See Distribution.

1. The possibility that sabotage equipment may be fitted with anti-handling or anti-removal devices has always existed. Recent evidence is that the Germans are now more likely than ever to use such devices. The following example has come to notice.

2. Nipolit Pressure Release Anti-Lifting Device.

(a) Specimens of the subject device have been recovered by CIC personnel of First U.S. Army from a sabotage school in GERMANY. The device is reported as not being a mass production job, having probably been made with common shop tools. Diagrams are attached.

(b) The body consists of two oblong bars of Nipolit explosive, grayish olive green in colour. The metal release and striker mechanism is sandwiched between the two halves. No caps or detonators were found and no pin was in the lower safety pin hole (10).

(c) After removal of the safety pins, upward movement of the tab end of the release lever frees the striker and detonates the device.

(d) The pressure required to hold down the release lever is stated to be very light.

1. There have recently been increasing indications that certain security/C.I. agencies are liable to resort to the use of violence in the interrogation of enemy agents and suspects.

2. It was laid down in this HQ instruction of even number dated 4 Jan 44 on the subject of "Handling of Enemy Agents" that duress and violence would NOT be used, and emphatic reference was made to this policy in our notes on "Interrogation Technique in Respect of Suspected Enemy Agents", issued on 15 Feb 45.

3. This policy is based on the following factors:

- (a) Humanitarian considerations.
- (b) Violence is as likely to produce lies as truth, and may well lead to bogus confessions.
- (c) The use of violence precludes the chance of obtaining a confession in Court.
- (d) Experience has shown that more subtle methods can nearly always extract the truth, even where violence has failed.

4. It is not suggested that interrogators should in any way render to the physical or mental comfort of arrested enemy agents or suspects, but it is desired that the use of actual physical violence be excluded.

5. Please ensure that all CIC/ISS are aware of the policy which has been laid down on this subject.
