Ed. J/C AC. 19

Mr. Sanchez

Mr. Clapp

Exchange of publications established in Rome, Report No. 1.

Attached please find the first report on exchange relations established in Rome for the Library of Congress by its Foreign Representative.

The total number of institutions to be contacted is approximately 250; this report contains the first 78. The rest or whatever has been completed by Mr. Domenico Pucile, my assistant left in charge of the Rome office during my absence, will form part of a second report.

This report consists of three parts:

Part 1. A tabulation of the 78 institutions giving dates of correspondence, visits, and material received. The "Remarks" column gives for each institution a summary of the correspondence received and of notes made during the visits indicating in most instances, the subject interest of the particular institution. This summary should be of assistance in the selection of material to be sent on exchange.

Part 2. Lists, arranged alphabetically by name of institutions, of the material received on exchange. Only two copies of these lists were prepared; one copy was enclosed in the package of material and the second copy is attached to the original copy of this report. Incidentally, the Library of Congress received 4080 pieces on exchange from these 78 institutions.

Part 3. Lists of American publications wanted or needed by Roman institutions. Unofficially the Roman institutions were asked to list the American publications which they were receiving before the war indicating the last date received; the response was voluminous. I have stated that this request was unofficial because my intention was not for the Library of Congress to take any active action on the matter but rather to gather the valuable information and transmit it to some organization in the United States which might survey the requests and suggest action. No similar survey has been made thus far by either American or British authorities. Two extra copies of this report are sent to you for redistribution, (perhaps Mr. Lydenberg's office could use a copy).

May I reiterate the great interest and cooperation the Italian institutions have extended to this phase of my work. It is understood that the Library of Congress can only offer on exchange U. S. official publications and bibliographies, but these institutions are most anxious to receive any publication from the United States.

Manuel Sanchez
Foreign Representative
