I return herewith the three pamphlets that you sent under cover of your letter of 16th July.

Your proposal to issue a Labour Bulletin on the lines of these pamphlets is an excellent one and such a Bulletin would merit the widest circulation and publicity.

As regards the actual material in the three pamphlets I can think of no improvement. The ground is very adequately covered and there should not in my opinion be any greater technical detail.

Following our telephone conversation, I am sending you herewith the three pamphlets on Labor which Mr. Adams, Labor Attache, American Embassy, suggested we could use for our Labor Bulletin. This Bulletin will be published in three issues of 48 pages each.

We would appreciate your reaction on them and any advice you might give us as to some more technical and apolitical material referring to this subject.

Please return the pamphlets at your earliest convenience.

SUBJECT: Camera del Lavoro, Genoa.

TO : Mr. John Adams, Labor Attache
American Embassy

1. The attached statement was obtained in the course of my visit to Genoa, and may be of interest to you. The points of interest are that the Camera del Lavoro promised to collaborate wholeheartedly with the Allied authorities, particularly as regards Ufficio del Lavoro (Item 13), and Joint Advisory Committees (Item 14).

2. I gathered the impression that De Franceschi, the Socialist, was the dominating spirit but that the views of the three joint secretaries were much milder than of their corresponding comrades in Milano.
