3. According to these tallies, total quantity of goods discharged for your account was in excess of manifest by 189 packages, whereas your tallies show a shortage of 655. The differences as between commodities occurs because of the fact that Port battalions often identify cargo simply as rations and do not pay much attention to the character of rations unless it is sugar, flour or some readily determinable commodity. For this reason, medical supplies were included.

4. It seems fair to say, therefore, that all of the commodities manifested for your account were discharged at ship-side and any losses must have taken place on shore either by pilferage or misdelivery, while the goods were under your control.
